INTRODUCTION

The Republic of North Macedonia (RNM) has received global recognition for results delivered as part of open government processes. Since 2011, when the country joined the initiative for Open Government Partnership (OGP), RNM has committedly followed the need for greater civic engagement and participation in decision-making, introduction of higher integrity standards and greater access to technology for all citizens.

Its commitment to openness has created many benefits, making the government more transparent and accountable, creating potential for development of dynamic environment for inclusion, efficient management of public resources, building integrity systems, enabling environment at local level, access to information and open data. By opening and making resources publicly available, we have managed to promote dialogue, innovation and use of technology, thereby making the lives of citizens better and easier.

Based on success achieved under the initiative's previous expansion to include the Assembly of RNM, in addition to commitments related to Open Parliament, this cycle also includes commitments for Open Judiciary. Hence, in order to respect independence of work performed by legislative and judicial branches of government in RNM, Macedonian iteration of the Open Government Partnership was adjusted to reflect this inclusion and accommodate the broader meaning of government as governing authorities. Consequently, all future communication and implementation of this initiative will reflect the local formulation which is back-translated as PARTNERSHIP FOR OPEN GOVERNMENT.

The Fifth Open Government Partnership National Action Plan 2021-2023 (NAP5) builds upon previous work dynamics, by assuming commitments aimed at increasing public participation and delivering solutions that are truly transformative. Also, it acknowledges the need for the public sector to embrace the innovative approach to creation of policies that meets citizens' needs and responds to contemporary trends.

NAP5 reaffirms the need to further previous commitments and improve their quality. It is aimed at implementing efforts related to access to justice, legal empowerment of citizens and promotion of legal protection, especially for youth, marginalized groups and women, promotion of public service delivery, continuation of activities for public disclosure of information on beneficial ownership, opening new datasets, and activities to prevent corruption, as well as environmental protection and addressing the issue of air pollution. It is expected that implementation of commitments under this two-year action plan will result in actual recognition of results, with citizens being able to confirm changes made.

Commitments assumed under NAP5 include:

PREVIOUS EFFORTS UNDER THE OPEN GOVERNMENT PARTNERSHIP

To present, RNM has implemented four action plans (2012-2014; 2014-2016; 2016-2018 and 2018-2020) under this global initiative and has achieved significant results in various areas of importance, including fiscal transparency and open finances, cooperation with the civil society, access to public information, participatory policy creation, public services, enabling legal environment for social agreements, open data, anticorruption, public procurements, transparency at local level, access to justice, and climate change.

A good practice introduced under OGP concerns establishment of links between NAP commitments and UN Sustainable Development Agenda by 2030, especially SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions, SDG3: Good Health and Wellbeing, SDG11: Sustainable Cities and Communities, SDG13: Climate Action, and SDG17: Partnership for the Goals.

Basic precondition for success of the Open Government Partnership is participation of civil society organizations and institutions. Civil participation is of crucial importance for open government and essential element of the national cycle for development of action plans.

In order to ensure full compliance with requirements of this initiative and following OGP Handbook and OGP Participation and Co-Creation Standards and Development of Multistakeholder Forum, the Council for Coordination and Monitoring the Open Government Partnership Process and OGP National Action Plan 2018-2020 (hereinafter: OGP Council) was formed in 2020.¹ OGP Council and Working Group comprised of all stakeholders in implementation of OGP National Action Plan 2018-2020 (hereinafter: OGP Working Group) provide the structure for coordination, monitoring and implementation of the Open Government Partnership in the Republic of North Macedonia.

Hence, the fifth cycle was supported by OGP Council and OGP Working Group, providing a structured method to maximize participation and contribution of both, representatives from the public sector and the civil society, through the established CSO Network for Open Government Partnership² (hereinafter: OGP Network).

Moreover, the web-portal designated for Open Government Partnership was designed and put into operation (www.ovp.gov.mk) and serves as focal point for consultation, monitoring, participation, networking and reporting to all stakeholders and interested parties. OGP web-portal is an online platform for interaction and exchange of information in four segments of this process: consultations for development of national action plans, monitoring implementation of NAPs, and monitoring performance of OGP Council and OGP Network.

OGP NATIONAL ACTION PLAN 2021-2023 - OPEN GOVERNMENT

The Ministry of Information Society and Administration, in cooperation with OGP Council and OGP Network, and supported by OGP Secretariat and the Foundation Open Society – Macedonia and its partner organizations, i.e. Center for Civil Communications and Association for Emancipation, Solidarity and Equality of Women - ESE, continued to provide support and active engagement in the co-creation process for NAP5.

In order to provide a systematized method for planning and organizing consultation processes that would ensure timely, unhindered, inclusive and transparent co-creation process for the new NAP, the method for co-creation of NAP was developed in 2020, including the procedure for stakeholder consultations in respect to definition of new priority areas and commitments under the OGP process, as well as timeline, open call for participation in NAP5 co-creation and guidelines for completing the questionnaire on assessment of NAP implementation in the period 2018-2020 and the need for civil society participation in development of NAP5. Moreover, OGP Network developed materials for the consultation procedure, such as: plan to promote the open call, educational materials and criteria to assess relevance and connection to OGP principles. All documents are available on OGP web-portal.

Under predictable and adequately regulated procedure for NAP co-creation, in a dynamic and inclusive environment, the process for development of the fifth Open Government National Action Plan 2021-2023 started in September 2020.

² OGP Network works on initiation, encouragement, support, implementation and monitoring of OGP process and stimulates authorities and other institutions to increase their transparency, accountability and openness for participation. More than 70 civil society organizations are involved in OGP Network.

Results from the open call for participation in the co-creation process for OGP National Action Plan 2021-2023, interest expressed for participation in working meetings for one or more priority areas³ and new ideas and issues submitted for reconsideration under the co-creation process (social protection, culture, science, education, health, digitalization, etc.), imposed the need for merging, regrouping and expanding priority areas to be covered by the new action plan. Accordingly, OGP Council defined several priority areas and formed corresponding working groups that continued activities for co-creation of the action plan, as follows:

Activities implemented as part of the co-creation process included 3 online informative-educational meetings; 12 online meetings to identify needs and problems; analysis of ongoing activities taken to address problems, institutions involved, and setting priorities; workshops for identifying and developing commitments; and more than 60 individual meetings for defining and aligning proposed commitments; OGP meeting at ministerial level; 2 e-workshops on transparency and accountability in the public sector and management based on interests and needs of citizens, all of which contributed towards final definition of commitments that form part of the new action plan.

Timeline of NAP5 co-creation process

Under conditions of COVID-19 pandemic, all communications and the co-creation process were implemented online, with timely dissemination of information about ongoing activities and processes, online events, open calls and possibilities for participation posted on OGP web-portal and OGP Network.

Stakeholder participation and representation in NAP5 co-creation process

Throughout the process for development of this action plan, the Government of RNM continued its good practice of linking NAP commitments to UN Sustainable Development Agenda by 2030, especially SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions, SDG3: Good Health and Wellbeing, and SDG13: Climate Action.

More specifically, NAP5 identifies links between OGP and three SDGs and six targets:

- SDG3: Good Health and Wellbeing
 - ✓ SDG target 3.8: Achieve universal health coverage, including financial risk protection, access to quality essential healthcare services and access to safe, effective, quality and affordable essential medicines and vaccines for all;
- SDG13: Climate Action
 - ✓ SDG target 13.3: Improve education, awareness-raising and human and institutional capacity on climate change mitigation, adaptation, impact reduction and early warning;
- SDG 16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions
 - ✓ SDG target 16.3: Promote the rule of law at national and international levels and ensure equal access to justice for all;
 - ✓ SDG target 16.5: Significantly reduce corruption and bribery in all their forms;
 - ✓ SDG target 16.6: Develop effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels;
 - ✓ SDG target 16.7: Ensure responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making at all levels;
 - ✓ SDG target 16.10: Ensure public access to information and protection of fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements.

Implementation of 23 commitments will directly work on achieving progress in respect to SDG16, i.e. will contribute to improved efficiency, accountability and transparency of institutions by promoting access to justice, access to information and protection of fundamental rights, and will lead to reduced corruption. Additionally, 2 commitments are aimed at ensuring progress in respect to SDG3 and SDG13, i.e. improve citizens' satisfaction with public services in education and healthcare, but also environmental protection and access to information in this area.

Hence, the broad virtual consultation process and advanced practices based on experiences from development of previous OGP National Action Plans, advice and recommendations provided by OGP Secretariat, recommendations from OGP Independent Reporting Mechanism, creative proposals put forward by stakeholders and 350 representatives from the government and the civil society, resulted in the Draft OGP National Action Plan 2021-2023, which includes 23 commitments and 95 milestones under 5 priority areas.

OPEN GOVERNMENT

1. TRANSPARENCY, ACCOUNTABILITY, PROACTIVITY AND INCLUSION

1.1. Public disclosure of beneficial ownership in companies that are awarded public procurement contracts

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	On 27 January 2021, the Republic of North Macedonia established the Registry of Beneficial Ownership in order to increase transparency of ownership structures among legal entities in the country and to comply with international and EU standards for combating money laundering and financing terrorism. All legal entities were given a deadline, 27 April 2021, for free-of-charge enlistment of data on beneficial ownership. As part of its enhanced accountability and responsibility measures for crisis relief awarded to individual countries to deal with the consequences of COVID-19 pandemic, IMF requires the countries that are awarded relief funds (RNM included) to implement safeguard mechanisms, including public disclosure of beneficial ownership in companies that are awarded tenders by the state. Although the requirement for information disclosure came as a result of relief efforts related to the coronavirus crisis and increased corruption risks, it becomes standard in public procurement in many countries across the world. To present, establishment of such mechanism in RNM was not possible due to non-existence of the Registry of Beneficial Ownership. On the other hand, public procurements in the country are continuously linked to widespread corruption and wrongdoings, suspicion of previous arrangements among companies and creation of artificial competition, which cannot guarantee the best value for the money spent. U.S. State Department's last report on investment climate in the Republic of North Macedonia cites corruption (and nepotism) in public procurements as problem for potential investors. Transparency of data from this registry allows backtracking of actual ownership, control and ultimate beneficiaries in all legal entities. This helps the fight against corruption, reduces investment risks and improves good governance.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment implies public disclosure of information on beneficial ownership in companies that are awarded public procurement contracts in the Electronic Public Procurement System, i.e. under the section designated for notifications on contracts signed and publication of procurement contracts. This mechanism will additionally enhance anticorruption efforts, i.e. it will prevent public money ending up in private pockets of public officials; will detect and prevent unlawful arrangements among companies in public procurements and will prevent illusionary competition in tender procedures among companies with same beneficial ownership. On the other hand, it will allow the public to monitor cost-effectiveness in public spending, detect the so-called red alerts for corruption, and will also support accountability in public spending.

How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Transparency in public procurements is considered an essential tool for reducing corruption and enabling fair and competitive bidding among companies. Transparency means publicly available information about the overall cycle of public procurement in order to ensure accountability. This information includes those on beneficial ownership in companies that are awarded state tenders. In that, information referred above does not concern only company managers and responsible persons, but beneficial owners, i.e. those who have final benefit from and control over the company in question. To present, such information remained unknown or unavailable not only for companies that are awarded public tenders, but for all companies in the country. Creation of the Registry of Beneficial Ownership and public disclosure of real company owners would allow this information to be known also in respect to economic operators that are awarded tenders, i.e. public procurement contracts. Implementation of this commitment will have a primarily preventive effect in respect to corruption and will allow detection and prevention of corruptive deals in public procurements. Although persons responsible for implementation of public procurements are obliged to deposit statements on conflict of interests in procurement procedures or to recuse themselves from decision-making, this is done only in relation to already known company persons (manager, owner, etc.). Beneficial owners were not covered by this preventive measure, as they were unknown in the first place. This measure will prevent companies with conflict of interests to participate in tender procedures, and in the cases where they submit bids it would be easier to detect existence of such conflicts and to prevent corruptive actions. The commitment is expected to have positive effect in respect to increased competition, i.e. it is expected to facilitate entry of other companies in public procurements, which will inevitably lead to better quality of procurements and better public services. At the same time, the measure supports accountability and good governance of institutions due to public disclosure of information about beneficial ownership of companies that are awarded tenders.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to completely new information, improves quality of information on public procurements and completes the set of information that could allow detection and prevention of corruption, and improves public availability of information, making this piece of information public and easily available to citizens, free of charge. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because it creates and improves opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making, whereby civil society organizations and investigative journalists are able to detect and report corruption. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates and improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.
Additional information	Implementation of this commitment does not require additional budget funds because it concerns automated retrieval of information kept by the Central Register of RNM and their publication on the government's website for public procurements (EPPS), which already allows such technical function. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

		SDG target 16.10: Ensure public access to information and protect fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements SDG target 16.5: Substantially reduce corruption and bribery in all their forms Measures anticipated under this commitment contribute to improved access to public information through efficient implementation of laws and better information dissemination to citizens.

1. TRANSPARENCY, ACCOUNTABILITY, PROACTIVITY AND INCLUSION

1.2 Proactive publication of information on the institutions' official websites

October 2021 – August 2023

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?

This commitment concerns the so-called active transparency of institutions, which means publishing information on own initiative, without being addressed with request for information.
The commitment will allow fast, easy and continuous access to basic information on operation of state institutions for citizens, companies and all other interested groups.

	In spite of the fact that, starting in late 2019, the new Law on Free Access to Public Information mandates institutions to publish such information on their websites, only a small number of them have complied with this obligation. According to 2021 Index of Active Transparency developed by the Center for Civil Communications, on average, ministries and the government publish 79% of required information, while municipalities publish only 60%. Individual percentages calculated per institution range from 10% to 100%. The same research conducted among public enterprises shows they publish 41% of required information. It is estimated that other institutions (around 1,200 in total) that were not covered by the civil society monitoring efforts publish even less information, although their information are equally important for citizens. In the meantime, the government adopted several measures to encourage publication of such information, but only in respect to governmental institutions, municipalities and public enterprises in which it appears as founding entity. In its performance audit report on quality of services provided by LSGUs on their websites, the State Audit Office has found that: “current quality of services provided by LSGUs on their websites does not ensure effective and fast service delivery and does not guarantee same treatment, equal access and availability for all citizens”.
Main objective of the commitment	This commitment implies enhanced efforts by the Agency for Protection of the Right to Free Access to Public Information aimed at improving active transparency of information holders. In 2016, before the start of enhanced efforts for active transparency of governmental institutions and municipalities, the average share of information published by these institutions accounted for 45%, while in the case of public enterprises, it accounted for only 28%. Having in mind the increase noted in respect to active transparency of these institutions after implementation of specific measures, improvements are expected with other institutions as well. Implementation of this commitment will increase availability of information that is important for people’s lives and work, and will reduce pressure for obtaining information by means of request for information. Adequate and timely access to information is precondition for effective participation of citizens in policy creation and for quality and timely delivery of services by state institutions.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	It is believed that the obligation for institutions to provide annual reports on compliance with article 10 of the law, i.e. the scope of published information on their operation, will contribute to increased disclosure of such information and compliance with article 10; however, the law does not anticipate misdemeanour sanctions in the case of non-compliance with this legal obligation. Development and publication of reports on compliance with article 10 will allow citizens and civil society organizations better insights about the level of basic information published by institutions, thereby increasing pressure on institutions to publish more information. Otherwise, implementation of this commitment should result in institutions proactively publishing:

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> information on regulations and decisions of authorities, thereby enabling the citizens' right to be informed about their rights and responsibilities in the society; information that citizens need to hold the authorities accountable; information that citizens need to be able to participate in decision-making; and information that citizens need to be able to access services provided by public institutions; Institutions that proactively publish information will also benefit from such practice: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> active transparency helps institutions be more responsible in public spending; by complying with this obligation, institutions promote the principles of good governance and integrity; and institutions are more efficient in their operation on the account of better management of information at their disposal.
	How is this commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information and improves public availability of information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it creates or improves opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making, and creates or improves the enabling environment for civil society. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates and improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.
	Additional information	Implementation of this commitment does not require additional budget funds because all activities planned are part of institutions' regular operation, including the Agency for Protection of the Right to Free Access to Public Information (ASPI). The commitment is linked to the National Strategy for Prevention of Corruption and Conflict of Interests 2021-2025, Government of RNM's Transparency Strategy, Government of RNM's Anticorruption Plan, and recommendations put forward in the functional analysis for ASPI. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.10: Ensure public access to information and protect fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements Measures anticipated under this commitment contribute to improved access to public information through more efficient implementation of laws and better information dissemination to citizens.

1.3 Publish basic information on public procurements on the institutions' official websites October 2021 - August 2023

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Basic data on public spending by means of tender procedures are available on the government's portal Electronic Public Procurement System (EPPS). Main purpose of this portal is organization of public procurements between state institutions and companies. The portal is intended for persons responsible for public procurements at institutions and companies who have received training for use of this portal. Hence, transparency of public procurement data is not a primary function of the portal, resulting in difficult access to basic data on public spending under public procurements for the general population and other stakeholders, whereby – contrary to the situation in other countries - citizens do not have fast, simple, easy and understandable insight about the manner in which public funds are spent. Two consecutive surveys of the Center for Civil Communications about the level of awareness among citizens in respect to public spending under public procurements, conducted among 400 respondents across the country, in 2017 and 2019, show that implementation of similar measures has increased the share of citizens who believe they have sufficient information on the manner in which public funds are spent under tender procedures has increased from 6% to 20% over the course of three years. In both surveys, high 98% of citizens responded that information they have about public spending come from the institutions' websites and from the media. Hence, institutions must publish more information on public spending on their respective websites, as the places where citizens most often look for and expect to receive such information. Commitments and activities implemented under the previous two OGP Action Plans served as precondition for this commitment. The first commitment concerns development of the list of information/documents as minimum standard for transparency in public procurements, followed by the Bureau of Public Procurements enabling a new functionality in EPPS that creates hyperlinks to EPPS notices that can be used to publish such information on the institutions' websites. This allows fast, easy and simple method for institutions to hyperlink their EPPS notices on their websites, making all basic information about their public procurements available in one place. In particular, individual profiles of local administrators registered in EPPS now include "HTML" tags for "iFrame" that contain information on planned procurements, procurement notices, notifications on contracts signed, and notifications on contract performance per contracting authority. All they need to do is copy and paste "HTML" tags on their websites.

Main objective of the commitment	The commitment concerns an obligation for institutions/contracting authorities stipulated under Article 9 of the Law on Public Procurements for creation of separate section (tab) on their websites designated for "public procurements" where all information and documents will be published in one place, including annual plans for public procurements, procurement notices (link to notice published on EPPS), notifications on contracts signed (link to notification published on EPPS), publication of contracts signed, and notifications on contract performance (link to notification published on EPPS). The purpose is for citizens to have fast, easy, simple and understandable access to information on the manner in which institutions spend public funds under public procurements (around 900 million euros annually) whereby institutions publish this information on their websites which, in turn, are the first point of information for citizens about particular institution.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Fast, easy, simple and understandable availability of such information for citizens will increase the institutions' accountability and responsibility in public spending, while citizens will be able to understand how are their money spent and for which purpose, and will be able to influence spending of public funds for their needs. The fact that publication of such information is fast and utterly simplified and can be done by copying "HTML" tags from EPPS and inserting them on the institution's website will address current problems related to insufficient ICT professional staff at institutions and overburdened persons responsible for public procurements, because publication of this information does not require special expertise and is not time consuming.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information available to citizens and civil society organizations, and improves access to public information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it creates or improves opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making, and creates or improves the enabling environment for civil society. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates or improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.
Additional information	Implementation of this commitment does not require additional budget because EPPS' function for creation and fast and easy transfer of hyperlinks to published information on the institution's websites is already available. In the case of institutions that do not have separate tabs, this commitment would imply creation of such tabs that is not subject of additional funding. Additional budgets

		fund will be needed only by institutions that do not have own websites, in respect to website design and hosting. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.10: Ensure public access to information and protect fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements. Measures defined under this commitment contribute to improved access to public information through more efficient enforcement of the laws and better information dissemination to citizens.

1.4 Improve access to information and number of open data published by local self-government units (LSGUs)

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Transparency and openness among LSGUs is still low. Most LSGUs in the Republic of North Macedonia do not publish all data and information that are regulated as legal obligations. Also, most municipalities do not publish data in open format. LSGUs do not have information about open datasets they dispose with. Knowledge and awareness about open data, as well as benefits therefrom, is very low among local officers, but also among citizens and local civil society organizations. Awareness about open data needs to be improved with all stakeholders in this process. 2020 Openness Index Survey, conducted by the Metamorphosis Foundation, showed that local governments meet 40% of indicators on openness. This average score is indicative of low commitment on the part of municipalities to meet the principles of openness. Efforts are needed to provide easier access to information on performance of local governments, encourage inclusive approach to decision-making and publish larger number of datasets in open format.
Main objective of the commitment	Improved conditions and increased capacity for greater transparency and openness of local governments. At least 5 datasets published in open format for each of 30 LSGUs. Better understanding of the open data concept at local level by all stakeholders in the process, and increased awareness in respect to benefits from open data.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Information on the level of openness among LSGUs will be subject of performance assessment for all local self-government units in the Republic of North Macedonia in respect to the principles of transparency, accessibility, efficiency and integrity, conducted as part of the Openness Index. This assessment will provide baseline for drafting recommendations aimed at improving transparency and openness among LSGUs. Trainings will be delivered for representatives of municipalities and civil society organization, in order to improve knowledge about the open data concept and promote transparency at local level. Facilitators will be engaged to support municipalities in their efforts to publish more information and prepare and publish datasets in open format.
How is this commitment relevant for OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information and improves access to public information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it improves opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making, and improves the enabling environment for civil society. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it promotes mechanisms for public accountability of officials.

Additional information		Activities will be implemented as part of the USAID Civic Engagement Project implemented by the Metamorphosis Foundation, in cooperation with MLSG and LSGUs. The commitment is related to attainment of objectives defined under the Open Data Strategy. Successful implementation of activities requires close cooperation with LSGUs. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.6: Develop effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels Measures under this commitment contribute to promotion of transparency and openness at local level. 1. TRANSPARENCY, ACCOUNTABILITY, PROACTIVITY AND INCLUSION

1.5 Ensure free access to data for civil society organizations

October 2021 - May 2022

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	According to data from the Central Register of RNM, there are 15,581 associations and foundations registered pursuant to the Law on Associations and Foundations. Based on Art.47 of the Law on Associations and Foundations and related to priority area “civil society” under the Government of RNM’s 3-6-9 Plan, the Central Register publishes the list of civil society organizations in open format (excel), available at: https://www.crm.com.mk/mk/otvoreni-podatotsi/gragjanski-organizatsii. At the moment, information published as part of this list concerns organization’s name, ID number and contact e-mail address.

The browsing function allows individual search by entity name or identification number: <https://www.crm.com.mk/mk/otvoreni-podatotsi/osnoven-profil-na-registriran-subjekt>, and retrieves information such as: SIN-B, STN, full name, abbreviated name, date of establishment, legal form, legal status, address, additional information (under receivership/liquidation), primary activity, size.

Article 47 of the Law on Associations and Foundations defines enlistment of register information in respect to: organization's full and abbreviated name, when available; organization's seat; act of establishment; date of establishment; name, surname and SIN-C and single identification number for founders; date of adoption, i.e. amendment of the statute; period for which the organization is established; goals and activities; name, surname and SIN-C of legal representative; data on organizational units (branches, offices, etc.); data on the status of public benefit organization; data on status changes; data on receivership and liquidation; comment on initiated procedure for prohibition of activity performance; termination of operation; number and date of the registration decision, decision on change of enlisted data and decision on entry deletion from relevant register according to Art. 40 (1) of the law.

It could be concluded that, at the moment, information/documents that are not made available free of charge include: act of establishment, information on founders and authorized persons, goals and activities, status of public benefit organization.

Participation of civil society organization in policy making is considered democratic minimum in any society. For that purpose, institutions apply different methods, including creation of separate registers, like in the example of the Secretariat for European Affairs: <https://www.sep.gov.mk/post/?id=706> or the Council for Cooperation with and Development of Civil Society: https://www.nvosorabotka.gov.mk/sites/default/files/4.%D0%9Ebrazec_Register_GO_0.pdf.

Non-state actors that also need broader consultations, communication and networking rely on registries they have created, like in the example of the platform "Dialogue to EU": (<https://bit.ly/3wnsQ10>) or Civica Mobilitas: <https://civicamobilitas.mk/adresar/>.

Both, international and interstate organizations often engage in activities aimed at mapping organizations active in different fields, for example, UNICEF: https://www.unicef.org/northmacedonia/media/3541/file/MK_MappingCSOsCWD_Report_MK.pdf.

The need for creation of separate registries (databases on associations and foundations) arises due to the lack of access to open data on civil society organizations registered in the Central Register pursuant to the Law on Associations and Foundations, which are regularly updated and which users can browse on different grounds, for different purposes. Above-mentioned registries kept outside the Central Register do not allow such insight, as they are partial and imply unnecessary funds spent for one and the same purpose.

Moreover, the list of civil society organizations records various forms of civil association, including associations, chambers, sports clubs, fan groups, driver associations, pensioner associations, women organizations, etc. It would be impossible to assess the structure of civil society without additional information on individual entities.

Main objective of the commitment	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Promote transparency of the civil society; 2. Promote inclusiveness in policy making and monitoring processes, through possibility for thematic, geographical or other type of targeting civil society organizations; 3. Ensure adequate policy creation for civil society development, taking into account specificities of all entities registered according to the Law on Associations and Foundations; 4. Reduce administrative burdens for associations when they apply for financial support with public and private donors.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Expand open data on CSOs with those available from individual browsing under existing functions Expanding the scope of open data published by the Central Register for civil society organizations (list of civil society organizations) free of charge on the website: http://www.crm.com.mk/mk/otvoreni-podatotsi/gragjanski-organizatsii, with all data that are publicly available, free of charge, through the service “general profile of registered entity” (http://www.crm.com.mk/mk/otvoreni-podatotsi/osnoven-profil-na-registriran-subjekt). Data will be obtained from current information available in the Register of Associations and Unions, Register of Foundations and Register of Organizational Forms of Foreign Organizations (all three registers defined in the Law on Associations and Foundations) and will be updated on monthly basis. Expanding the scope of data available will enable browsing filters on different grounds, for example, according to location of seat, legal form, size, etc., i.e. per each parameter of available data, and will result in increased use value of such data. Having in mind that the Central Register is responsible for these data, they will be updated and complete. Other registries kept by state institutions and non-state actors are partial (include only information about organizations that are registered for specific purpose) and do not imply sustainable mechanisms for updating data. Such information will serve the civil society, but also donors and international organizations, in respect to consultation processes and information dissemination. Also, public availability of such information will facilitate applying for financial support (public and private) in administrative terms. 2. Provide access to dynamic reports with customizable data on civil society organizations for budget beneficiaries (central and local authorities) While the Central Register offers free access to information for state institutions, it is evident that some institutions are not informed about this possibility, and some of them do not benefit from the format in which information on civil society organizations is made available, so they decide to create and use own registries of associations and foundations, often created per thematic commitment of organizations, like the examples given above in respect to SEA and the Council for Cooperation with and Development of Civil Society. Enabling the function for creation of dynamic reports with customizable data on associations and foundations for institutions that are state budget beneficiaries

	(central and local authorities) will allow direct and authorized access to such reports. Data contained in these reports will be obtained from current status in the Register of Associations and Unions, Register of Foundations and Register of Organizational Forms of Foreign Organizations (all three registers defined in the Law on Associations and Foundations) on the basis of pre-defined entry criteria (filters) such as: geographical location according to the organization's seat, organizational form, size, area of operation based on keyword in organization's goals and objectives, etc. Final definition of input criteria and output data will be decided in inclusive process, by working group composed of representatives from FOSM as the lead organization proposing this commitment, representatives from the Central Register, the Government's Department for Cooperation with Civil Society Organizations, and the Council for Cooperation with and Development of Civil Society. By allowing the possibility for access to updated data that could be processed according to particular interest of institutions, the latter will be able to increase the scope of organizations they communicate with, inform and include in ongoing consultation processes. Finally, policy making on civil society development is another end in itself. The Government has established the Council for Cooperation with and Development of Civil Society and has adopted, i.e. develops the new Strategy for Civil Society Development. However, creation of quality policies depends on availability of quality data. The current format in which data on citizens' associations are available is not usable and useful in policy making. Enabling free access to data on civil society organizations will greatly facilitate work of the Council in this regard.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it promotes transparency of the civil society, improves quality and access to public and free information by making all data available in one central location and, in addition to individual search, it also allows analytical use of data, provides conditions for relieving civil society organizations of administrative burdens when applying for funding with public and private donors. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because data are available to state institutions, allowing them to target civil society organizations based on thematic, geographical, typological and other aspect, in order to be included in policy creation and monitoring processes. CSOs and donors have access to integrated data in one place, which they can use for organization of consultation processes or for information dissemination to associations and foundations. The commitment will improve creation of civil society development policies, based on credible and reliable information from integral database.
Additional information	Link to the Government's Strategy for Cooperation and Development of Civil Society 2018-2020: The Government's Strategy for Cooperation and Development of Civil Society 2018-2020 includes MEASURE 12: Increase availability and dissemination of public data on civil society organizations enlisted in the Central Register of the Republic of Macedonia. This measure is accompanied by two activities:

		12.1. Improve the database of civil society organizations enlisted in the Central Register, by expanding publicly available information on registered civil society organizations 12.2. Improve the legal framework for procedures on obtaining necessary information from the Central Register for the purpose of public funding to projects and programs of civil society organizations. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.10: Ensure access to information and protect fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements. Measures anticipated under this commitment contribute to improved access to public information through more efficient enforcement of the laws and better information to citizens.

1. TRANSPARENCY, ACCOUNTABILITY, PROACTIVITY AND INCLUSION

1.6 Fiscal transparency and accountability at local level and improved involvement of citizens through innovative mechanisms and tools

October 2021 - September 2023

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Good governance at local level means improving processes for the purpose of more efficient and cost-effective delivery of public services, by ensuring full transparency and accountability, and by involving citizens in decision-making. In that, due consideration should be made for these processes to guarantee inclusion. Having in mind new trends and documents of the Council of Europe, the European Union and the United Nations, these commitments can be achieved by using innovative and new technologies that facilitate access to information and sensitize citizens. The need to increase transparency and accountability at local level is featured in almost all reports and strategy documents of national institutions, while progress in these aspects, inter alia, is monitored through analyses and surveys conducted annually. Public opinion polls on citizens' satisfaction with services at local level from the past four years show certain improvement in terms of assessment scores assigned to availability of municipal information (from 3.0 in 2017 to 3.1 in 2020), civil participation in decisions of local importance (from 2.3 in 2017 to 2.6 in 2020), and citizens' knowledge about the manner in which budget funds are spent in their municipality (from 2.2 in 2017 to 2.4 in 2020). However, in spite of relative progress achieved in this regard, additional efforts are still needed to improve overall transparency and accountability of local governments and to ensure greater involvement of citizens in decision-making at local level.

	As regards better public finance management, emphasis is put on improving transparency and accountability. The need for greater financial transparency and accountability was addressed during adoption of the Law on Financial Support to Local Self-Government Units and Beneficiary Entities Founded by Local Self-Government Units Intended to Finance Matured and Unsettled Liabilities in October 2018, in order to improve public finance management through greater financial discipline and accountability. In December 2020, the Government adopted a conclusion that mandates line ministries and recommends municipalities to improve active transparency, with emphasis on financial transparency, especially in respect to execution of central budget funds.
Main objective of the commitment	Introduce innovative mechanisms and tools to improve financial transparency and accountability of local self-government units and involvement of citizens in decision-making at local level.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Introduction of electronic newsletter boards in municipalities as particularly accessible method for informing municipal council members and citizens in general about key financial data related to municipal performance and public services, including automatic download of quarterly reports on budget execution prepared by municipal administrations and processing data contained in more user-friendly and visible format. Data will be published in a manner that is understandable to council members who are not financial experts and in user-friendly manner for citizens. The goal is to ensure that municipal council members are able to perform their budget control function in more responsible manner and to take decisions based on information and in close cooperation and consultation with citizens, allowed by better information dissemination and understanding of the budget planning and execution process. Municipalities will be supported to create and put into operation innovative tools for easier access to information and to encourage involvement of citizens in decision-making related to local policy creation and services. The third aspect concerns establishment of single mechanism for citizen involvement in decision-making and local priority setting that would ensure adequate representation of all citizens, with emphasis on socially disadvantaged and marginalized groups.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information and improves access to public information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because it creates and improves opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making and improves the enabling environment for civil society. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it improves mechanisms for public accountability of officials.

Additional information		The commitment represents continuation from NAP4 and is aimed at introducing mechanisms and tools for improved financial transparency and accountability and citizen involvement in all municipalities, allowing them greater impact in respect to improved local governance. Under NAP4, these mechanisms and tools were introduced in 24 municipalities. The commitment contributes to attainment of priorities and goals defined under the Government's Program for Sustainable Local Development and Decentralization 2021-2026 and UN Sustainable Development Goals, especially SDG16: Promote just, peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, provide access to justice for all and build efficient, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels, and specifically to SDG target 16.6: Develop efficient, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels, and SDG target 16.7: Ensure responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making at all levels

2. ANTICORRUPTION AND PROMOTION OF GOOD GOVERNANCE

2.1 Public procurements as open data October 2021 - August 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Worldwide, public procurements are the typical place where corruption is found. There are many ways in which public procurements are used as instrument for various transactions that are contrary to the public interest and for the purpose of personal proceeds or trading influences. The National Strategy for Prevention of Corruption and Conflict of Interests identifies public procurements as significant risk factor, present in most areas of operation by public institutions. In its last round of monitoring efforts, the Center for Civil Communications notes that, in the first half of 2021, only 1% of public procurements were subject to administrative controls resulting in irregularities identified in every fifth procurement procedure controlled. CCC's monitoring reports on public procurements regularly feature remarks on low competition in public procurements. Low competition in public procurements organized in economy sectors marked by solid competition is an important indicator of corruption risks. Republic of North Macedonia has electronic system of public procurements that is public and allows citizens to view data on procurement notices and contracts signed. However, monitoring public procurements by external persons, primarily by the media and civil society organizations, is made difficult due to manual data collection. This means that external monitoring is burdened with engagement of resources and time that could be otherwise devoted to data analysis instead of data collection.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment aims to improve accountability in public procurements through better opportunities for external monitoring by the media and civil society organizations. The commitment anticipates publication of public procurements in machine-readable format as open data on the government's portal designated for that purpose.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Data transparency has significant impact on reducing corruption risks. Disclosing information to the interested public allows in-depth analyses and detection of corruption alerts. In essence, this means that institutions, by the effect of their transparency, enable better quality of involvement on the part of external actors, e.g. civil society, in effective monitoring, through partnership relations between the two sides. Analyses based on the share, scope, networking of contracting authorities and economic operators account for modern-day anticorruption tools and allow timely alerts that could be further processed by other public institutions, e.g. SCPC, in order to improve relevant policy and legal framework. Database on public procurements in open format provides conditions for development of such tools and improves the fight against corruption.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it allows new method of access to existing information that facilitates fast analyses of large data volumes. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it facilitates work of civil society organizations and the media profiled in the field of public

	procurements and allows increased number of stakeholders to use public procurement analyses to inform citizens. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because comprehensiveness of analyses based on databases in open format enables development of new tool for early alarms on risk factors in particular public procurements and early alarms improve control and integrity of public procurements and saves funds collected from taxpayers.
Additional information	Implementation of this commitment does not require additional budget funds. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.5: Substantially reduce corruption and bribery in all their forms Measures defined under this commitment contribute to prevention and fight against corruption and protection of the public interest by increasing accountability and responsibility of elected and appointed officials before citizens.

2. ANTICORRUPTION AND PROMOTION OF GOOD GOVERNANCE

2.2 Improve mechanism for monitoring asset declarations by elected and appointed officials

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	One method to reduce and prevent illegal enrichment of elected and appointed officials and disproportionate increase of their assets as a result of abuse of public office concerns a functional mechanism on record keeping and monitoring their property status. In Macedonia, this system is relatively inefficient, primarily due to technical reasons and leave ample space for insufficient transparency in respect to publication of asset declaration submitted by officials and insufficient efficiency in respect to monitoring such assets. SCPC is limited in record keeping and monitoring property status of officials while they are still in office. At the same time, SCPC does not have full insight in the total number of officials in the Republic of North Macedonia and whether all persons required submitting asset declarations pursuant to Art. 82 of the Law on Prevention of Corruption and Conflict of Interests have complied with this obligation, because the register of appointed and elected official has still not enabled the function for which it was established. In brief, except for competent institutions, citizens are also denied opportunity to have full insight in the list of elected and appointed officials in the country, and changes to their property status during performance of their public office.
Main objective of the commitment	Establish a functional system that will streamline verification of asset and interest declarations of elected and appointed officials and will provide citizens with adequate insight in property status and interests of elected and appointed official and overview of changes thereto during their performance of public office.

How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?		Asset and interest declarations are globally recognized as transparency tool that allows citizens and institutions opportunity for greater insight in property status and interests of elected and appointed official, thus contributing to prevention of public office abuses for personal gains and pursuit of private interests. Historical tracking of assets provides the basis for control of risks related to material enrichment during performance of public office, while control over conflict of interests helps observe how the person took decisions as part of their work and whether he/she has put private before public interest. Publication of these data in clear, structured and open format will enable development of adequate tools that present such information in straightforward manner.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?		COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it allows access to new information, having in mind that, to present, such information were invisible or poorly presented, and facilitates fast analysis of large data volumes. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it facilitates external monitoring by civil society organizations and the media. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it provides improved register of elected and appointed officials, improved method of asset and interest declaration, as well as electronic data exchange that will avoid ambiguities and inaccuracies in reporting and publishing assets and interests, thereby improving accountability of elected and appointed officials during performance of their public office.
Additional information		Implementation of this commitment requires budget funds that have been secured to meet SCPC’s needs (funds from the central budget and international assistance) Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.5: Substantially reduce corruption and bribery in all their forms Measures anticipated under this commitment contribute to prevention and fight against corruption and protect the public interest by enhancing accountability and responsibility of elected and appointed official before citizens.

2. ANTICORRUPTION AND PROMOTION OF GOOD GOVERNANCE

2.3 Publish files on appointment of managers/directors at public institutions by the Government of RNM

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Persons appointed by the Government of RNM to manager/director positions at institutions account for the highest tier of merits in state administration. According to the legislation in effect and good governance standards, they should be characterized by high competence, expertise and management skills. However, for many years, actual practices differ from standards. Selection of such management staff remains informal to great extent, with appointment of acting directors/managers or appointments made under conditions of low competition, i.e. public calls with one candidate. Information on their selection/appointment is scarce, including their work biographies, and documents that should accompany their selection, at least formally, are not publicly available. This situation furthers citizens' perception that the best candidates are not selected and that party membership or coalition agreements play a key role in this process. In parallel to this perception, rotations/replacements of managers/directors in the aftermath of general elections, even when the same government stays in power, confirm the non-essential character of personnel solutions, i.e. low added value assigned to performance by relevant institution, making persons that hold managerial positions easily replaceable. This situation negatively affects development of institutions and consequently affects service delivery to citizens. First, incompetent management does not contribute to development of any institution because it does not know how to choose and manage solutions to problems faced by the institution. Second, such selection of managers/directors discourages professional staff at the institution, but also external experts, to apply on the open call and be given chance to manage public institutions.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment is aimed at ensuring transparency of the targeted process. Its purpose is not to address the overall problem, but improve transparency that would narrow space for informal decisions on selection/appointment of managers. The commitment concerns publication of files on such appointments (i.e., open call, when announced; proposal made to the committee on appointments, decision taken by the government, work biography of elected or appointed managers/directors, self-evaluation matrix, cover letter and work program). Documents will be posted on the portal vlada.mk or on the open data portal. The commitment also applies to the cases where acting managers/directors are appointed, with the exception of documents that are not submitted by selected candidates, for example, work program. Information will be published in tabular form: open call, number of applications submitted (completed or incomplete, timely and untimely), number of selected candidates. In the cases where acting directors/managers are appointed, information will be published only in respect to person appointed. This will increase transparency and establish new standards on transparency as anticorruption tool. Increased transparency will contribute to gradual restoration of trust in this process among citizens and interested candidates.

How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?		Transparency is considered to be important tool in improving governance and anticorruption. Publication of files on persons appointed by the Government of RNM as managers/directors of institutions will provide the public insights into professional competencies of selected candidates.
How is the commitment relevant for OGP values?		COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to completely new information, improves quality of information on appointments and improves access to public information by making these data publicly, easily and free of charge available to citizens. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it creates and improves opportunities for the civil society and the media to monitor appointments and inform citizens about government decisions, and to report on selection and competencies of persons appointed. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates and improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.
Additional information		Implementation of this commitment does not require additional budget funds. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.5: Substantially reduce corruption and bribery in all their forms Measures defined under this commitment contribute to prevention and fight against corruption and protect the public interest by enhancing accountability and responsibility of elected and appointed officials before citizens.

3. PROMOTE DELIVERY OF PUBLIC SERVICES

3.1. Employment policies and services based on citizens' priorities

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Countries in Southeast and Central Europe, which include the Republic of North Macedonia, are lagging behind the Western European countries in respect to key indicators of health and wellbeing. The fact that public institutions are closed and citizens have low awareness about their fundamental rights, coupled with lack of actual partnership between civil society organizations and public institutions, limit the process for improving public services and access thereto. In addition, technology development and digitalization opportunities in the world have encouraged governments in the region, including the Government of RNM, to initiate processes for digitalization of certain services and to introduce technologies for automated data publishing. Thus far, many of these initiatives concern development of products that would contribute to enhanced transparency of institutions, but significant share of them undermine the need for involvement of citizens and do not take into account their opinions, i.e. increased volume of data made publicly available under previous initiatives and intended to contribute towards increased engagement of citizens in decision-making, have not yielded the desired results. Two specific reasons have led to such situation: complexity of data published and citizens' inability to understand them, as well as lack of two-directional communication mechanisms between those that publish data and intended user of such data. Lack of two-directional communication mechanisms between institutions and citizens at the Employment Service Agency and its regional offices contributes to low trust among beneficiaries of its services and low response on the part of citizens, with focus on vulnerable groups and environments.
Main objective of the commitment	Key and long-term objective of this commitment is to establish organized system and practice for two-directional communication between citizens and decision makers in respect to creation, implementation and evaluation of employment policies.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Activities taken under this commitment will contribute to initiation of changes and establishment of positive practices at two levels: national and local, through cooperation between above named public institutions and civil society organizations. All activities will focus on establishment of mechanisms for involvement of citizens that are identified as target groups of active employment policies and services (unemployed people and companies). In particular, the commitment will be focused on: 1) monitoring and implementing active employment policies and services by civil society organizations involved in this commitment, which would later continue such cooperation and engage in continuous work on developing target policies; 2) developing platforms for consultations and transparency and work with citizens from vulnerable groups, in order to familiarize them with their rights under these policies, collect their recommendations and opinions, provide feedback to citizens' proposals, and familiarize them with possibilities for

	future involvement in decision making; 3) promoting the platforms developed with the general public in order to ensure broad use thereof and involvement of citizens in creation, monitoring and evaluation of services in the relevant field; 4) improving policies/practices based on proposals received and citizens' participation, by providing feedback on the status and steps taken in respect to their proposals.
How is this commitment relevant for OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it anticipates development and launch of tools and mechanisms for distribution of more information on budgeting and programming work by institutions that provide employment services. Also, the commitment works on improving quality and availability of existing and new information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because it allows development of communication and consultation tools with target groups before and during adoption and implementation of policies in the relevant field and anticipates an approach for mobilizing and motivating citizens to actively participate and use these tools. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY as it enables establishment of mechanisms that will contribute to promoted accountability of public officials.
Additional information	The commitment includes activities that imply establishment and use of mechanisms for civic involvement in decision-making pertaining to employment policies. Hence, all proposed solutions contribute to attainment of goals and actions defined by the Government of RNM after submission of the voluntary national review on implementation of SDGs at the High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development in 2020. In particular, next step under SDG1: support for employment of vulnerable groups of citizens with measures anticipated under the National Strategy on Employment and Strategy for Formalization of Informal Economy, including operational plans for active employment programmes and measures and labour market services. Next step under SDG5: one of key priorities of the country in the next years will be continued efforts to improve employment opportunities for women and ensure their protection at work. Next step under SDG8: the government will monitor programmes and activities under relevant action plans for new jobs, improved participation in the labour market and increased labour demands and increased competitiveness. Also, it will continue to align national labour legislation with international standards and EU acquis. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.6: Develop effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels. Measures under this commitment contribute to improved planning, implementation and monitoring of public services which, in turn, will contribute to greater satisfaction among citizens with public services delivered.

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Countries in Southeast and Central Europe, which include the Republic of North Macedonia, are lagging behind the Western European countries in respect to key indicators of health and wellbeing. The fact that public institutions are closed and citizens have low awareness about their fundamental rights, as well as lack of actual partnership between civil society organizations and public institutions, limit the process for improving public

	services and access thereto. In addition, technology development and digitalization opportunities in the world have encouraged governments in the region, including the Government of RNM, to initiate processes for digitalization of certain services and to introduce technologies for automated data publishing. Thus far, many of these initiatives concern development of products that would contribute to enhanced transparency of institutions, but significant share of them undermine the need for involvement of citizens and do not take into account their opinions, i.e. increased volume of data made publicly available under previous initiatives and intended to contribute towards increased engagement of citizens in the decision-making, have not yielded the desired results. Two specific factors have led to such situation: complexity of data published and citizens' inability to understand them, as well as lack of two-directional communication mechanisms between those that publish data and intended users of such data. Lack of two-directional communication mechanisms between local governments and citizens contributes to low trust among users of local services and low response on the part of citizens, with focus on vulnerable groups and environments, in decision-making at local level.
Main objective of the commitment	Key and long-term objective of this commitment is to establish organized system and practice for two-directional communication between citizens and decision-makers in planning, implementation and evaluation of local public services.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Activities under this commitment will contribute to initiation of changes and establishment of positive practices at local level, through cooperation between above named institutions and local civil society organizations. All activities will focus on establishment of mechanisms for involvement of citizens as users of services provided by local governments across the country. In particular, the commitment will be focused on: 1) establishing continuous cooperation between minister/director/state secretary responsible for planning, monitoring and delivery of local public services and civil society organizations involved in this commitment, which would later continue cooperation and engage in continuous work on development of relevant policies and services; 2) developing platforms for consultations and transparency and work with citizens from vulnerable groups, in order to familiarize them with their rights under these policies, collect their recommendations and opinions, and familiarize them with possibilities for future involvement in decision-making; 3) promoting the platforms developed with the general public in order to ensure broad use thereof ; 4) improving policies/services/practiced based on proposals received and participation of citizens, by providing feedback on the status and steps taken in respect to their proposals.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it anticipates development and launch of tools and mechanisms for distribution of more information on budgeting and programming work of institutions that provide local public services. Also, the commitment works on improving quality and availability of existing and new information.

	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CITIZEN PARTICIPATION because it allows development of communication and consultation tools with target groups before and during adoption and implementation of policies in the relevant field and anticipates an approach for mobilizing and motivating citizens to actively participate and use these tools. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it enables establishment of mechanisms that will contribute to promoted accountability of public officials.
Additional information	The commitment includes activities that imply establishment and use of mechanisms for civic involvement in decision-making pertaining to local public services. Hence, all solutions proposed contribute to attainment of goals and actions defined by the Government of RNM after submission of the voluntary national review on implementation of SDGs at the High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development in 2020. In particular, next step under SDG2: government will focus on measures to improve the structure of agricultural land as precondition for development and competitiveness of this sector, improve living and working conditions in rural areas and provide access to knowledge and investment in human capital through reformed services for expansion and education of farmers. Next step under SDG5: one of key priorities of the country in the next years will be continued effort to improve employment opportunities for women and ensure their protection at work. Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.6: Develop effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels. Measures under this commitment contribute to improved planning, implementation and monitoring of public services which, in turn, will contribute to increased satisfaction among citizens with public services delivered.

3.5. Available e-services in rural areas
October 2021 - June 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Lack of information about the National Portal for Electronic Services (uslugi.gov.mk) (the portal) and all data available thereon; lack of adequate digital literacy among local population for use of e-services provided by the portal; lack of trust in institutions and in electronic communications. First IPARD programme was marked by absorption rate of only 16% and reasons could be sought in voluminous documents required and referrals from one to another office which, in the case of farmers, implies spending of already scarce time and funds. Excessive burden put on institutions is best demonstrated by several examples: throughout the application period for subsidies or during the open call, MAFWE regional offices were swarmed with farmers, several people per one employee, with employees failing to enter and review all information and documents needed, resulting in erroneous entries in the electronic system and oftentimes rejection of applications for subsidies; large rows and crowds in front of desks were common feature even during the coronavirus crisis, which would not have happened if everybody had the opportunity to obtain permits for movement during curfew via the electronic system and would not have led to situations in which civil servants from MAFWE regional officers submit applications on behalf of farmers, resulting in new rows and crowds for obtaining such permits in hardcopy, ultimately forcing MAFWE to take decision on validity of permits throughout the entire period in which curfews were imposed. Delays in service provision and poor quality of services received: for example, to obtain letter of confirmation from the municipality that particular investment is in line with LED strategy and does not pollute the environment, a person had to visit the municipality 10 times in a row and eventually receive letter with erroneous information, which oftentimes implies additional costs for farmers and rejection of their investment applications. There are plenty of such examples in the Pelagonija Region, more precisely in Krivogashtani. Entering incorrect data by civil servants often results in loss of financial support, e.g., subsidies, etc., especially when errors concern data on land parcels and crops, usually when these are entered electronically for the purpose of applying for subsidies. Such mistakes are usually due to lack of knowledge. When this is combined with the fact that civil

	servants have to enter such data for 90,000 farmers, who usually submit applications 10 days before submission deadline. Sometimes municipalities enter incorrect data about persons or agricultural holdings, and the vicious circle continues. Farmers are excessively dependent on civil servants at local institutions in the application process. Moreover, residents from rural areas have to spend more time and resources compared to those living in urban areas, etc. Farmers and rural population are taken as target group to elaborate the problem, although services introduced by this commitment will not be used only by farmers, but by local population in general, as evidenced in the latest field research conducted by the Rural Coalition (anecdotal statements or views are included) available at https://rural.mk/wp-content/uploads/2021/04/%D0%B0%D0%BD%D0%B0%D0%BB%D0%B8%D0%B7%D0%B0-%D0%B4%D0%B8%D0%B3%D0%B8%D1%82%D0%B0%D0%BB%D0%B8%D0%B7%D0%B0%D1%86%D0%B8%D1%98%D0%B0-1.pdf. There are more than 170,000 registered family agricultural holdings in the country. All of them are in need of services covered by this commitment multiple times throughout the year, such as: applying for subsidies, applying on IPARD open calls and applying for the rural development program, and they all require submission of employment records (M1/M2), certificate on taxes paid, letter of certification from the municipality on investment's compliance with LED, certificates on non-initiated receivership or bankruptcy procedure, certificate on legal status, certificate demonstrating there are no prohibitions in place for activity or profession performance, etc. In particular, most of above enlisted documents, i.e. public services, are required in the application process for subsidies, application process for financial support under the Rural Development Program which provides investments for modernization of agricultural holdings and promotion of rural development, which concern funding that exceeds 200 million euros per year. These documents are also required in the application process for IPARD programme, which is very important because it directly affects the absorption rate of IPARD funds.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is to bring closer to citizens in rural areas services provided the national electronic portal and to increase their trust and security to engage in electronic communications with institutions. Results: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Increased information among citizens in local communities about the portal (uslugi.gov.mk); Increased knowledge and skills among rural population to use e-services available on the portal (uslugi.gov.mk)

		without leaving any citizen behind. Moreover, increased use of e-services, increased trust in institutions and in the state, in general, also improves quality of life in the community. 3. PROMOTE DELIVERY OF PUBLIC SERVICES

3.6 Better access to guaranteed forms of protection for victims of human trafficking

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	116 human trafficking victims have been identified in the period 2005-2019. Starting from 2014, the number of identified victims is small, primarily due to absence of active identification on the part of competent institutions. Experience often shows that identification of victims underperforms in the labyrinths of state institutions with competences in this regard. In 2019, a case was noted in which a minor girl, voluntarily and with support from friend, had decided to report to competent institutions that she is victim of human trafficking. However, later it was established that the girl had already established contact with the particular competent institution, but the latter had failed to recognize her case as human trafficking. There is a general impression that content and format of data presented in annual reports on human trafficking do not correspond to the need to determine progress made by the state in this field. Additionally, there are no analytical overviews on state-of-affairs presented in such reports, as well as evaluation of progress attained under individual goals defined, in order to measure progress in the future. This has given rise to the negative impression about progress made by the state with international bodies and citizens, but on the other hand, difficulties in decision-making and implementation of changes in line with international standards. Ministry of Justice implements the programme for payment of redress to child victims of human trafficking in cases where damages cannot be claimed from human trafficking offenders. After leaving the shelters, victims often face unemployment and housing problems, although the programme for reintegration of human trafficking victims enlists employment, housing, continued education, etc. as key elements of their reintegration process. The country does not have special programs and measures in place for integration of victims in work processes for the purpose of economic empowerment. Victims of human trafficking do not benefit from active employment measures provided by the state through the Employment Service Agency, because ESA does not have a special system that will guarantee protection of their personal data and the victim status.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is to strengthen the fight against human trafficking in the Republic of North Macedonia and to provide effective protection of victims. Specific results expected from this commitment include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Increased number of identified human trafficking victims and services provided to them; • Enhanced transparency and accountability of institutions that work on human trafficking; • Increased information and access to healthcare services, employment and justice for victims of human trafficking.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	The commitment will contribute to addressing the public problem by establishing effective measures by institutions aimed at better access to services and better information for victims of human trafficking. Solutions will be designed under several activities implemented in partnership with civil society organizations. In particular, measures include establishment of mobile teams for field work and will contribute to improved identification and protection of human trafficking victims. Functional database will be

	established and efforts will be made to revise and improve the system for data collection, enabling public data that will allow monitoring of progress made by the state in respect to suppression of human trafficking and protection of victims. In addition, the commitment will contribute to increased capacity of medical staff to recognize and take action in cases of human trafficking. Victims of human trafficking and the public will be informed about REP centres and their availability for service provision. Measures will also contribute to better information for victims and their legal representatives in respect to the right to redress for children and adult victims of human trafficking. Programs and measures will be created for victims to be included in work processes aimed at their economic empowerment.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY The commitment directly contributes to greater transparency and accountability on the part of institutions working on human trafficking, especially in the context of UN Sustainable Development Goals. Proposed solutions are aimed at ensuring access to new and more information for the public and for victims of human trafficking in respect to available justice and legal protection services. Specific measures anticipate provision of and access to quality information primarily for victims, but also for advocates and the general public in RNM. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION Proposed solutions will enable improved cooperation between CSOs and institutions by sharing information and taking action in human trafficking cases on the part of the Ministry of Interior, CSOs and other competent institutions. Victims will be actively involved in upgrading measures and policies proposed. In particular, they will be involved in campaign activities, awareness raising and development of specific programs for human trafficking victims. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY Some measures anticipate greater accountability on the part of institutions in respect to data availability on human trafficking. A system will be created to make data publicly available in order to facilitate monitoring of progress made by the state in suppression of human trafficking and protection of victims.
Additional information	Efforts made under this commitment are directly related to and in line with the new Strategy on Combating Human Trafficking and Illegal Migration and Action Plan 2021-2025. Moreover, they are in compliance with RNM's Action Plan for Implementation of the Convention on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women and Domestic Violence 2018-2023. Link to Global Sustainable Development Goals Link to SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

		SDG target 16.3: Promote the rule of law at national and international level and ensure equal access to justice for all. Measures anticipated under this commitment will improve measures/actions taken by institutions in respect to record keeping and will ensure better access to services and better dissemination of information to human trafficking victims.

3. PROMOTE DELIVERY OF PUBLIC SERVICES
3.7 Improve protection mechanisms for victims of harassment in the workplace (mobbing)
October 2021 - June 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	RNM lacks statistics on the number of mobbing victims. Based on ILO's research, more than 4% of workers are subject to psychological violence, 2% to sexual harassment and 8% to intimidation and harassment. Taking into account these statistics, it could be assessed that around 111,936 of the total number of employees in RNM are victims of mobbing. From 2013, when the Law on Protection against Harassment in the Workplace was adopted, there have been only two initiated and successfully resolved cases, and one case is pending. According to data from the toll-free line for reporting harassment in the workplace, 65 calls for assistance and support were recorded over a period of two months in 2020, with more than half of them being made by women. This situation is due to insufficient information among workers about this phenomenon, including available protection mechanisms. Mediators in mobbing cases appointed at employers are insufficiently educated about their place and role within the system for protection of workers. Moreover the country has not fully adopted international treaties and mechanisms on this subject matter, i.e. it has not ratified ILO Convention 190 and Recommendation 206, and has failed to organize consultations with all stakeholders for development of legal solutions to this phenomenon.

Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is to improve the already established mechanism for protection against harassment in the workplace.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Implementation of this commitment will enable information dissemination to employees about their rights to protection against mobbing arising from the Law on Labour Relations and education for selected independent persons appointed as mediators in procedures for resolution of mobbing cases, which have not been covered in systematic manner thus far, ratification of the International Labour Organization's Convention 190 and Recommendation 206, establishment of electronic and public system for reporting and monitoring status and implementation of all proceedings initiated in mobbing cases, and establishment of working group comprised of practitioners to initiate amendments to the Law on Protection against Harassment in the Workplace.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information and access to public information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it creates opportunities and conditions for public participation and influence in decision-making, and increases opportunities for civil society involvement. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it enables establishment of mechanisms that will contribute to promotion of accountability of public officials.
Additional information	The commitment implies activities that will contribute to attainment of goals and actions defined by the Government of RNM after submission of the voluntary national review on implementation of SDGs at the High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development in 2020. In particular, next step under SDG1 : support for employment of vulnerable groups of people with measures anticipated under the National Strategy on Employment and Strategy for Formalization of Informal Economy, including operational plans for active employment programmes and measures and labour market services. Next step under SDG2 : the government will focus on measures to improve the structure of agricultural lands as precondition for development and competitiveness in this sector, improve living and working conditions in rural areas and provide access to knowledge and investment in human capital through reformed services for expansion and education of farmers. Next step under SDG5 : one of key priorities of the country in the next years will be continued efforts to improve employment opportunities for women and ensure their protection at work. Next step under SDG8 : the government will monitor programmes and activities under relevant action plans for new jobs, improved participation in the labour market and increased labour demands increased competitiveness. 3 PROMOTE DELIVERY OF PUBLIC SERVICES
3.8. Provide access to therapy and health services for people who use drugs after having served their imprisonment sentence
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Persons who use drugs have difficult access to exercise of the right to treatment after having served their imprisonment sentence, because they are released without personal identification documents and health insurance, which are preconditions for these people to continue with their methadone substitution therapy. Based on the survey conducted by HOPS about legal problems and needs of persons who use drugs in the Republic of North Macedonia, 58% of them are released from prison without valid identification documents. From 2012, HOPS has registered around 63 cases of persons who use drugs that have served their imprisonment sentence and cannot continue their substitution therapy due to lack of identification documents and health insurance. This results in deterioration of their health because they experience abstinence crises during the period in which they do not receive therapy. Moreover, having in mind that addiction diseases are complex conditions and even the smallest stress could worsen this condition, there is an increased risk for relapse, which leads to overdose and fatal outcomes. In spite of the fact that the Law on Execution of Sanctions clearly stipulates that, during the entire period of serving imprisonment sentences, inmates should be prepared for their release from the institution, this problems still exists in the practice. Inequitable access to healthcare services and treatment for persons who use drugs. Based on the survey conducted by HOPS about legal problems and needs of intravenous drug users and sex workers in the Republic of North Macedonia, 57% of persons who use drugs reported at least one problem related to healthcare rights, 38% of them have experienced discrimination by medical staff (use of additional protection, examination in special premises that are not adjusted for medical practice, waiting to receive adequate medical treatment until the end of working hours, insults, etc.), 21% reported being denied treatment for serious health problems (surgeries, dressing wounds, hospital admission, etc.), 25% experienced difficulties in respect to registration with primary physicians due to discrimination.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is to ensure equal treatment and facilitated access to healthcare rights for persons who use drugs through integration of uninsured persons in the health insurance program, increased interdepartmental cooperation between daily centres for prevention and treatment of drug abuse and addiction, the Directorate for Execution of Sanctions, the Health Insurance Fund and the Ministry of Interior, sensitisation of medical staff when treating persons who use drugs through training, acknowledgement of non-governmental organizations as service providers under the Law on Health Protection, timely issuance and renewal of personal identification documents and adoption of streamlined procedure for issuance of ID cards to persons who do not have such documents. Expected results: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Timely issuance and renewal of ID cards for persons who use drugs during the period when they serve their imprisonment sentence and after release from the institution. - Equal treatment and non-discrimination by medical staff towards persons who use drugs. - Facilitated access to healthcare rights for persons who use drugs. - Established interdepartmental cooperation between daily centres for prevention and treatment of drug abuse and addiction, the Directorate for Execution of Sanctions, the Health Insurance Fund of the Republic of North Macedonia and the Ministry of Interior.

How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Establishment of interdepartmental cooperation between daily centres for prevention and treatment of drug abuse and addiction, the Directorate for Execution of Sanctions, the Health Insurance Fund of the Republic of North Macedonia and the Ministry of Interior will allow persons who use drugs and especially those serving imprisonment sentence to obtain and renew their personal identification and health insurance documents in the period when they are serving their sentence and after being released from the institution. Timely issuance of personal identification documents and health insurance to persons who use drugs will facilitate their access to the right to treatment against addiction. Introduction of training for medical staff for treatment of persons who use drugs will increase their sensitivity for this community. Moreover, training for sensitisation of medical staff (specialists, nurses, laboratory technicians, registered general practitioners, medical doctors, etc.) aims to introduce participants to stigma, discrimination and problems faced by people who use drugs when using healthcare services, with special focus on women who, in addition to discrimination in the society, also face discrimination in their communities. Also, training aims to sensitise medical staff in order to refrain from complicating access to healthcare services for people who use drugs, especially because they are in great need thereof. Training content will be additionally developed in cooperation with the Ministry of Health, but based on HOPS experiences in delivery of such training, and will cover topics such as: harm reduction; types of drugs, effects and consequences from drug use; human rights, stigma and discrimination; and other topics to be agreed based on medical staff's needs. Training will be delivered by trained persons engaged by HOPS. The ministry's role would imply support for organization and delivery of trainings. People who use drugs will have equal treatment and access to healthcare rights as any other citizens.

How is the commitment relevant to OGP value?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, improves quality of information and access to public, i.e. facilitates the right to information, by ensuring record keeping on training delivered for sensitisation of medical staff on treatment of persons who use drugs, and records on the number of trained staff for work with these persons. Adoption of the program for streamlined procedure for issuance of personal identification documents and implementation thereof will enable record keeping on the number of persons who use drugs that have been issued personal identification documents. Involvement of non-insured people who use drugs in the health insurance program will allow insight into the number of these people that have joined the program and have been provided healthcare services. Memorandum of cooperation signed between competent institutions will contribute to increased number of inmates who use drugs and records on the number of persons who continued treatment with substitution therapy after having served their imprisonment sentence. At the same time, such records will show established interdepartmental cooperation between competent institutions that contributes to resolution of this problem. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it creates opportunities and conditions for citizens' participation and influence in decision-making, and increases opportunities for civil society involvement. Stigma and discrimination they have been facing for many years resulted in distrust among persons who use drugs in the system and consequently in reduced motivation to report and solve problems they face and improve their position in the society. From these reasons, involvement of the civil society in this commitment is of great importance. At the same time, involvement of the civil society will contribute to direct participation of people from this community in creation of policies and practices. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it enables establishment of mechanisms that will contribute to greater accountability of public officials. Training for and sensitisation of medical staff will contribute to equal access and treatment for all people, including persons who use drugs, as well as possibility for detection of irregularities in their work. At the same time, (non)delivery of obligations arising from the memorandum of cooperation signed between competent institutions, as well as the number of inmates who use drugs that have continued treatment with substitution therapy after being released from prison will provide a clear picture about the level of commitment among competent institutions to addressing this problem, which has been perpetuated for many years, as well as insight into irregularities in their operation and opportunity to demand elimination of such irregularities.

4. ACCESS TO JUSTICE
4.1 Promote protection of sex workers and persons who use drugs October 2021 –August 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Primary purpose of the police in any democratic society is to respect and protect fundamental human rights and freedoms of all citizens, non-discrimination, and respect and protection of human dignity. Nevertheless, in many cases, actions of the police amount to violation of rights of persons who use drugs and sex workers. Persons who use drugs often report cases in which they have been illegally searched by policemen, have been maltreated at police stations, have been exposed to torture (forced to plead guilty of having committed certain act for policemen to be able to initiate proceedings against them), inhumane and/or degrading treatment, have not been informed of their rights at police stations, excessive force had been used on them by the police, resulting in infliction of bodily injuries. In addition to being exposed to police torture, persons who use drugs are also subject of torture in prisons. On the other hand, sex workers often report that police do not take action upon their reports on violence and that they suffer different forms of violence at the hands of the police. Another serious problem concerns the fact that neither the police nor the public prosecution services conduct thorough investigations into cases reported by sex workers, especially in regard to femicide of sex workers. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Discrimination, unequal treatment and human rights violation of persons who use drugs and sex workers by the police. According to the research survey conducted by HOPS about legal problems and needs of persons who use drugs and sex workers on the territory of the Republic of North Macedonia, 85% of persons who use drugs and 62% of sex workers have reported at least one problem with the police: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 69% of persons who use drugs and 49% of sex workers have faced unlawful search, profiling and the like by the police; - 65% of persons who use drugs and 41% of sex workers have faced physical or psychological maltreatment by policemen (insults, degradation, battering, etc.); - 37% of persons who use drugs and 20% of sex workers have been victims of wrongdoings related to abuse of official position and duty by the police (abuse of personal data, blackmail, etc.); - 47% of persons who use drugs and 27% of sex workers have faced ungrounded apprehension, custody or arrest; - 33% of persons who use drugs and 28% of sex workers have faced rejection by the police to record or to initiate investigation into reported act/problem; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The police do not act upon criminal reports made by persons who drugs and sex workers. According to the research survey conducted among sex workers for the purpose of amending legal regulations on sex work in Macedonia, only 1.3% of sex workers responded that they expect or have received assistance from the police, which is due to failure to take action by the police, discriminatory treatment and abuse of official duty.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Torture and degrading treatment of persons who use drugs and sex workers in prisons. According to the research survey conducted by HOPS about legal problems faced by persons who use drugs and sex workers on the territory of the Republic of North Macedonia, 92% of persons who use drugs and 60% of sex workers have faced at least one problem when they were serving their imprisonment sentence.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is sensitisation of policemen and prison staff in treatment of persons who use drugs and sex workers through training. Expected results: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The police takes action in cases reported by persons who use drugs and sex workers; Equal treatment by the police and prison staff of persons who use drugs and sex workers; Increased trust in the police among persons who use drugs and sex workers;
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Introduction of training for policemen and prison staff on work with persons who use drugs and sex workers will increase sensitivity of the police and prison staff in dealing with these two communities. Persons who use drugs and sex workers will enjoy equal treatment, increasing their confidence in the police and resulting in higher number of reported cases. Introduction of mandatory audio and video recordings at police premises during interviews will contribute to more efficient resolution and elimination of torture, inhumane and degrading treatment of persons who use drugs and sex workers. Use of audio and video recording technology is regulated under Article 93-a of the Police Law, which stipulates that the police, when taking action within their authorizations, shall use audio and video recording technology in order to ensure recorded materials on the matter in which policemen have taken relevant actions. Use of audio and video recording technology is regulated under other laws and such technology is already used at courts and public prosecution offices. In addition to existing legislation, the Law on Prevention and Protection of Violence against Women and Domestic Violence will enter into effect in May 2021 and stipulates measures for protection of victims from revictimization that define an obligation for competent institutions to use audio and video recording technology when taking statements from victims at police stations and public prosecution offices.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it allows access to new and more information, by ensuring records on training delivered for sensitization of policemen and prison staff and records on trained staff to work with persons who use drugs and sex workers. Mandatory audio and video recordings at police premises during interviews improve the quality of information that persons who use drugs and sex workers whose rights had been violated by the police (discrimination, violation of rights and torture, inhumane and degrading treatment) can use as evidence in human rights violation proceedings. Audio and video recordings will not be available to the public, but will serve as protection against additional victimization and revictimization.

		They will ensure easier monitoring and insight into whether and to what extent competent institutions comply with this commitment. Records on delivered training and trained staff will allow easier monitoring of work performed by institutions and competent ministries. Moreover, access to such information will allow the public insight into whether and to what extent competent institutions comply with this commitment. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because persons who use drugs and sex workers, due to the stigma they have been facing for many years, had lost their trust in the system and express lower motivation to report and resolve problems they are facing and to improve their position in the society. On this account, civil society participation in this commitment is of great importance, as it increases motivation for reporting and ensures full support in respect to counselling services. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because introduction of mandatory audio and video recording at police stations during interviews will contribute to more efficient resolution of human right violation cases by policemen, and will provide a clear image about whether and how persons who use drugs and sex workers are informed about their rights during police custody, which policemen are obliged to provide. Audio and video recordings will not be publicly available, but will serve as protection against additional victimization and revictimization, i.e. will serve as evidence in proceedings on human rights violation by the police (discrimination, torture, inhumane and degrading treatment). Training delivered and sensitized staff will contribute to equitable access and treatment of all people, including persons who use drugs and sex workers, and possibility to observe irregularities in their work. All these will contribute to creation and improvement of accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.

4.2 Promote access to justice for socially disadvantaged and citizens at social risk October 2021 – August 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Exercise of guaranteed minimum allowance as social protection right or transformation of conditional social allowance into guaranteed minimum allowance requires the applicants (i.e. social beneficiaries) to demonstrate inability for self-sustenance on all grounds. In practice, it means that applicants/beneficiaries need to motion lawsuits for sustenance against members of their family/household. Filing lawsuit means initiation of court proceedings, but this category of citizens lack knowledge about such processes, and initiation thereof is expensive for socially disadvantaged categories of citizens (overall procedure costs around 2,000 MKD, which is a high amount for individuals or households without income, whereby they need to apply for free legal aid, but would have to repay funds obtained on this ground if they lose the lawsuit), disrupts already fragile relations between the applicant and his/her relatives under obligation for life sustenance. Nevertheless, this procedure can be initiated by social work centres, in the name and on behalf of applicants, when the applicant is elderly, exhausted, incapable, disabled person and child, which is rarely done in the practice. On the other hand, there are many citizens that benefit from guaranteed minimum allowance and funds received on that ground are blocked by enforcement agents due to unpaid debts. The Law on Enforcement exempts beneficiaries of guaranteed minimum allowance, humanitarian aid, social

	allowance, etc., from enforcement of arrears payment in order to ensure minimum income for family sustenance. In essence, high number of social allowance beneficiaries does not know they are exempted from such enforcement. Even if they are exempted by enforcement agents by submitting certificate letter from the social work centre, social beneficiaries would have to pay bank charges in the amount of 1,400 MKD to have their bank account unblocked. Given that social allowance beneficiaries have lower education, and are unlearned clients, they accept blocking of their bank accounts and withdrawal of funds without any objection. This is detrimental for them personally and for their families, forcing them into begging, rummaging waste bins, and even engagement in criminal activities like illegal timbering, theft, and the like. In 2018, MLSP and the Chamber of Enforcement Agents signed memorandum on prohibition to block social numbers, but that has not visibly changed the situation in the field and there are still many omissions in the practice. Social numbers are not visible to enforcement agents, local self-governments and banks. Hence, until they “prove” that funds paid to their account fall under the category of social allowance, beneficiaries thereof are sometimes left without any funds for up to 6 months. This situation discourages many of them to apply for active employment measures implemented by ESARNM due to fear that enforcement agents would collect debts on these funds.
Main objective of the commitment	This commitment’s main objective is to provide access to the procedure for exercise of social protection rights for socially disadvantaged categories of citizens without having to initiate expensive procedure which, in the long run, will affect restoration of their trust in the social protection system. Following the example whereby SWCs collect data on property status of household/family members could create a practice for data collection needed to establish material status of family members from the applicant’s household that are obliged to ensure his/her livelihood. This would be the easiest way to determine and assess whether family members have sufficient income throughout the year to afford sustenance of the applicant. Moreover, it will strengthen data collection in ex-officio capacity, on the basis of which SWCs will be able to assess whether applicants/potential applicants can secure their livelihood from family members before they are referred to initiate sustenance lawsuits, i.e. they will be protected from having to engage expensive and long procedures. Expects results include: enhanced capacity of SWCs in assessment of material, financial and property status of social beneficiaries/applicants by using the mechanism for data collection in ex-officio capacity; developed internal guidelines for data collection and appraisal thereof; developed guidelines for initiation of procedures in the interest of vulnerable population that depends on exercise of social welfare rights. At the same time, the commitment will prevent blocking of social numbers held by social allowance beneficiaries. The final result is that social numbers will be protected against enforcement orders. Such protection will ensure final categorization of bank accounts that can or cannot be blocked.

How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem? ?	The commitment takes into account principles applied in general administrative procedures, such as: the principle of proportionality; the principle of cost-effectiveness and efficiency of procedures; the principle of citizen-centred services in exercise of client rights and interests; the principle of establishing material truth for all facts and circumstances that of crucial importance for proper establishment of factual situation by collecting, analysing and processing information and data in ex-officio capacity; the principle of active assistance to clients in exercise and protection of their rights in the most effective and easiest manner, whereby the client's lack of knowledge should not be detrimental to their legal rights and interests. Proper and accurate establishment of the client's status will serve the purpose of preventing delays in processes and conscious engagement in long court proceedings. Attainment of this goal requires implementation of several activities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Development of internal guidelines for exercise of the legal possibility under Art. 269, paragraph 1 of the Law on Social Protection related to gathering data on material, financial and property status of family/household members. The guidelines could include practical information on facts that need to be established, as well as method for proper application of facts when taking decisions on social allowance applications. Implementation of this activity requires organization of meetings to determine the structure, framework and content of the guidelines in practical terms. It is of great importance for the guidelines to be discussed within SWCs, because their needs should be reflected as well. The guidelines should be developed by MLSP, the Bureau of Social Work, and in consultation with external connoisseurs of the subject matter (CSOs, professors, etc.), when needed. 2. Enhanced capacity of SWCs to enforce legal provisions under Art. 298 of the Law on Social Protection. SWC needs should be assessed, especially in respect to enforcement of legal provisions for initiation of lawsuits in the name of and on behalf of elderly, exhausted, incapacitated, disabled people and children. The best and most adequate method for that is to organize 3 to 5 one-day workshops/counselling with legal professionals from SWCs across the country. Workshops should focus on identifying practical problems and needs of SWCs in respect to enforcement of this legal possibility in the practice, and methods to overcome obstacles that prevent them to provide full protection to clients. Also, workshops/counselling should be organized and implemented by MLSP, in consultation with the Bureau of Social Work, and with external connoisseurs of the subject matter (CSOs, etc.), when needed. 3. Development of manual based on outputs from activity no.2 with templates for initial submissions and other instructions about the course of court proceedings that would be beneficial for SWCs. This activity, in addition to being implemented on the basis of activity no.2, should be performed by MLSP and properly communicated with legal empowerment practitioners and CSOs. As already elaborated, at the moment, beneficiaries of guaranteed minimum allowance are facing serious challenges in exercise of this right guaranteed by the constitution.

	Implementation of this commitment will primarily restore the rule of law, but also the citizens' trust in institutions. This commitment requires implementation of several activities: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Amending the Law on Enforcement and replacing the memorandum of understanding between MLSP and the Chamber of Enforcement Agents with a legal act of higher effect to ensure that social numbers are exempted from blocking bank accounts; - Designing software solution for bank accounts of social allowance beneficiaries to be linked to their social number in order to prevent blocking of funds disbursed by social protection institutions. MLSP should develop software that will protect the social number through data on social allowance beneficiaries disposed by MLSP, while the Ministry of Finance and the Ministry of Information Society and Administration should be consulted in the process. In the case of humanitarian aid, the same should be registered and assigned an adequate social number. The social number must be different from the beneficiary's bank account number and used only for social protection purposes. Similar experiences were noted in respect to the second and third package of government relief measures for the COVID-19 pandemic and the above-named ministries could use them for this purpose as well.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new and more information, but also improves quality of information by addressing the problem of blocked bank accounts by disseminating quality and timely information to enforcement agents, banks and local self-governments on the status of social welfare transactions, which will result in avoidance of unnecessary problems for all stakeholders. It improves access to information for the public and promotes the right to information by making SWCs more transparent, open and approachable for cooperation by the fact that they will make additional efforts for proper information to these categories of citizens and exercise of their rights. All stakeholders exercise their right to information, and access to information is enhanced, ultimately resulting in more efficient and effective laws. It provides precise rules of procedures for the institutions pursuant to single law, which guarantees security for competent institutions, but also for beneficiaries of social welfare rights. More precisely, it eliminates bias in interpretation of laws that allows for variable practices in the field. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because it creates or improves possibilities for public participation and impact on decisions, notably by engaging in consultations with the non-governmental sector in respect to implementation of activities. It creates or improves the enabling environment for civil society thorough activities which, in addition to addressing a major and widespread problem among vulnerable and socially disadvantaged categories of citizens, also improves communication between civil society representatives that work with this category of citizens and MLSP as institution of great importance for this population group. Implementation of the commitment will result in the government listening to the voice of citizens and active engagement of citizens for improving the laws that would serve their needs. The commitment will be accompanied by database comprised of persons who have had their rights violated and will include

	production of video testimonies, including recommendations for adequate solutions. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates or improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanism for public officials.
Additional information	Linked to UN Sustainable Development Goals SDG 16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.3: Promote the rule of law at national and international levels and provide equal access to justice for all. Measures defined under this commitment will promote and streamline the procedure for exercise of social welfare rights by socially disadvantaged citizens, without initiation of expensive court proceedings, and will restore trust in the social protection system.

4.3 Access to justice for women who suffered domestic violence

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Lack of transparency and accountability among competent institutions involved in the system on protection against gender-based violence against women and domestic violence, which contributes to ineffective protection of women who suffered domestic violence for longer period of time. Absence of separate and adequate record keeping on gender-based violence against women and domestic violence is a systemic problem that prevents monitoring of actual state-of-affairs, detection of trends and adequate planning of laws and policies for prevention and protection of women who suffered domestic violence. This prevents identification of specific problems faced by women who suffered domestic violence in respect to access to justice, resulting in adoption and implementation of laws and policies that do not ensure effective protection against domestic violence.

	While domestic violence is regulated by law adopted in 2004 and competent institutions are legally obliged to keep separate records on domestic violence cases, in the practice there are no separate records and public information about the state-of-affairs on domestic violence. Chapter IV, Art.28 of the Law on Prevention and Protection from Violence against Women and Domestic Violence stipulates an obligation for establishment of separate records on gender-based violence against women and domestic violence by relevant ministries, institutions and LSGUs. Moreover, the law anticipates an obligation for MLSP to stipulate the form and content for the template on data collection among competent institutions, in agreement with the Minister of Interior, Minister of Justice and Minister of Health. In spite of these legal obligations, the practice shows absence of adequate system for data collection and regular publication of data by above-named institutions. Courts and public prosecution offices do not keep separate records on civil and criminal cases related to gender-based violence against women and domestic violence within the existing system (ACMIS) and do not engage in regular publication of data and actions taken by judges. Different practices are in place for record keeping at courts in respect to civil proceedings for issuance of temporary protection measures. Under ACMIS, assignment of domestic violence cases to particular judge does not allow the same to be informed about other court proceedings led for the same case (which is necessary for adoption of adequate verdict). At the same time, there is no possibility for browsing court verdicts in domestic violence cases on the judicial portal (sud.mk). The new law⁵ does not anticipate an obligation for courts and prosecution offices to keep separate records on gender-based violence against women and domestic violence that could be facilitated by previously designed template developed and approved by the Ministry of Justice. Mol does not publish data on domestic violence cases registered as criminal acts, complaints and misdemeanours. It is important to note that, 10 years ago, Mol had positive practice for publishing quarterly data on domestic violence at the level of sectors for internal affairs. Moreover, there is no register of domestic violence perpetrators that would inform expert staff at institutions competent to take action in cases of gender-based violence against women and domestic violence. SWCs do not have adequate system for data collection and publication. MLSP website provides only information on cases reported in the months of May and June 2020, but these are rather general and do not allow more detailed overview of state-of-affairs in respect to domestic violence in the state and actions taken by SWCs to protect women who suffered domestic violence. Moreover, the last reports on performance of social work centres published by the Bureau of Social Work concern the year 2015. Even the Bureau has established that SWCs do not keep adequate records on domestic violence cases, i.e. there is discrepancy in data obtained from LIRIKUS database and data collected by questionnaires distributed to SWCs.

	In addition, the public does not have access to information on issued and enforced temporary measures for protection against domestic violence, which serves as prevention mechanism that directly affects decreased rate of domestic violence in the society. On the account of these problems, it is necessary to improve transparency and accountability of competent institutions by establishing adequate system for data collection, data exchange among experts and regular dissemination of public information on state-of-affairs and trends related to gender-based violence against women and domestic violence.
Main objective of the commitment	The commitment's main objective is to establish separate records on domestic violence cases by competent ministries and institutions involved in the protection system. In addition to improving transparency and accountability of institutions, this commitment will also contribute to better access to justice for women who suffered domestic violence, having in mind that continuous collection of unified data would allow establishment of specific legal needs of victims, i.e. would serve as baseline for future planning, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies, laws and practices. In that, it is important to note that proposals to improve the system of data collection and publication on domestic violence are developed on the basis of relevant experiences of women who suffered domestic violence, as well experiences of practitioners from competent institutions. Below is the elaboration of activities and expected results. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. ACMIS system at courts is enhanced with introduction of separate records on domestic violence case with desegregated data on victims of domestic violence for the purpose of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • regular publication of data on the number and type of cases, data on victims per region (urban/rural), ethnic community; • inform judges about different court verdicts related to the same case of domestic violence that have been or are still led before competent court (e.g., judge acting in civil proceedings for issuance of temporary protection measures should receive information about parallel initiation of criminal proceedings in the same case); • assign all civil proceedings related to domestic violence to same judge, for example, proceedings for divorce of marriage, custody rights over children and issuance of temporary protection measures; • regular publication of criminal and civil verdicts on domestic violence protection and introduction of browsing function per key word "domestic violence"; • regular publication of publicly available data on the number and type of motions for exemption from payment of court fees and taxes, number and type of approved motions, amount of court fees and taxes exempted; 2. Increased openness of the court by appointment of on-duty judge (and stenographer) for issuance of temporary protection measures during weekends and holidays.

	3. Promoted system for data collection on domestic violence at SWCs and the police, with desegregated statistics on victims and regular publication of publicly available information on domestic violence. 4. Mol should review and improve existing templates (criminal offences, misdemeanours and complaints) in order to collect more detailed data on domestic violence related to: number of criminal offences, misdemeanours and complaints; basic information on victims (place of residence urban/rural; education background; employment status; ethnic community); basic information on domestic violence perpetrators, in order to introduce separate records and publish data on trends in respect to motions for criminal charges related to “bodily injury” from Article 130, paragraph 2 of the Criminal Code that have been withdrawn and re-submitted. Also, introduce separate record keeping and publish data on the number of urgent protection measures taken by the police and related to “removal of violent perpetrators from the home and issuance of restraining orders”. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • introduce a register of domestic violence perpetrators in order to inform experts from institutions who take actions in domestic violence cases; • quarterly publication of data by SWCs on domestic violence cases with desegregated data on victims, number and type of measures per region (urban/rural) and ethnic community; • SWCs to introduce separate records on cases that require issuance of temporary protection measures and to regularly publish data on the number of such cases, number of motions made to the court and issued temporary measures, to issue documents confirming that temporary measures are in place for victims to be able to submit motions before the court on their own. 5. Electronic system is established for data collection and exchange between SWCs, courts, the police and health institutions, in respect to issued, revoked, altered or motioned temporary protection measures against domestic violence.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Establishment of separate records on domestic violence cases at all competent institutions will directly contribute to increased transparency and accountability of institutions. The established system for data collection will enable regular monitoring of state-of-affairs, adequate management of victim’s needs and evidence-based planning of state policies and laws.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it allows access to new and more information, improves quality of information, improves access to public information, i.e. facilitates the right to information. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIL PARTICIPATION because it improves possibilities and conditions for public participation and impact in decision-making, creates or improves the enabling environment for civil society. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates or improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials.

Additional information		Required/secured budget for implementation of the commitment It is important to note that implementation of the proposed commitment does not require budget funds. Namely, upgrades to the existing system for data collection at SWCs (activities 1, 3 and 4) require initiation of internal processes at competent ministries, i.e. definition of templates and their use in the practice. Implementation of activity 2, i.e. appointment of on-duty judge to take action in domestic violence cases during weekends and public holidays is already established practice at number of basic courts and the same should be replicated by other courts. Link to other governmental programs, national development plan or other sector/local plans Commitment is fully aligned with national strategies and programs that govern gender equality at international and regional level. It is also aligned with the action plan for implementation of the ratified Council of Europe Convention on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women and Domestic Violence (Istanbul Convention). Link to UN Sustainable Development Goals SDG16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions SDG target 16.3: Promote the rule of law at national and international level and ensure equal access to justice for all Link to the Anticorruption Strategy, UN Sustainable Development Goals, etc. Keeping separate records and regular publication of data on domestic violence directly contributes to implementation of SDG target 16.3: Promote the rule of law and equal access to justice for all. In particular, implementation of this sustainable development goal in the state necessitates regular data on the situation in respect to vulnerable categories of citizens, including women who suffered domestic violence. Such data should serve as baseline for development of national plan for implementation of SDG16.3., i.e. plan for promotion of access to justice for vulnerable groups of citizens. In the last years, Association ESE and Coalition Margins, with the support from the Foundation Open Society – Macedonia (FOSM), have worked on accelerating the process for implementation of SDG 16.3 by the government. In that regard, advocacy efforts are aimed at establishment of data collection system about the situation in respect to vulnerable groups of citizens.

4.4 Legal empowerment of citizens through available information and open institutions October 2021 – August 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	The new Law on Free Legal Aid (LFLA), whose implementation started in October 2019, has significantly improved access to justice for citizens. However, the law showcased certain weaknesses in the practice and needs to be amended in order to ensure efficient enforcement. One problem concerns forensic services that should be provided by the Bureau of Judicial Forensic. The problem identified concerns the Bureau's inability to secure forensic expert in most common areas of legal problems for which citizens need free legal aid, including geodesy experts and DNA analysis (molecular biology). The second problem is related to (non)approval of applications for secondary legal aid in the case of victims of violent criminal offence in criminal proceedings. This is prompted by contradictory nature of transitional and final provisions under LFLA and limiting mechanisms under the Law on Criminal Proceedings (LCP). The third problem concerns the need for legal empowerment and legal education services under the human rights based approach. There are two dilemmas in respect to legal regulation of forensic expertise under the system of free legal aid. First, the Strategy on Justice System Reform 2017-2022 anticipates an activity for termination of the Bureau. This brings under question Art.13 (6) of LFLA. Second, the method, procedure and deadlines for provision of forensic findings and opinions by relevant body or forensic expert are not regulated in sufficient details. There is no back-up plan in case the Bureau is terminated. On the other hand, underway is development of Draft Law on Forensics, which keeps provisions related to operation of the Bureau. The uncertainty is identified in respect to current regulations for coverage of forensic costs or addressing the lack of forensic experts in areas of legal problems faced by the vulnerable population.

In terms of access to justice for victims of violent criminal offences, LFLA is contradictory as one provision explicitly stipulates that defence and court representation in criminal proceedings shall be secured pursuant to LCP (Art.38 of LFLA), while another provision still leaves in effect stipulations from the old law that anticipate legal aid in all court proceedings, in order to ensure protection for victims of criminal offences and victims of human trafficking (Art.49 of the new LFLA in relation to Art.8 of the old LFLA). Nevertheless, even if legal representation for victims of criminal offences is provided pursuant LCP, i.e. working version of the new LCP shows intent to find adequate solution, this does not eliminate the problem related to restricted mechanisms available to victims under LCP. Possibility for free legal aid is referred only in Art.53 (3) in correlation to Art.55 (1) (1) of LCP. This formulation is very rigid and stipulates that victims shall be entitled to legal counsellor on the burden of budget funds, i.e. free-of-charge meeting with counsellor or proxy prior to depositing his/her statement (provided they participate in proceedings as damaged party), i.e. statement or property tenure motion, provided they have suffered serious psycho-physical damages caused by the criminal offence and only if they are victim of criminal offence with threatened sanction of imprisonment sentence in duration of at least 4 years (low threshold for threatened sanction for this crime). Such formulation does not cover full representation during criminal proceedings, but reduces it to counselling during deposition of first statement. Leaving the victim of violent crime alone, without adequate representation during the court process just because LCP or LFLA does not allow such mechanism is contrary to all international standards and principles related to legal aid and legal services for victims.

In addition to free legal aid as formally acknowledged form, there are also informal services that are most accessible to marginalized citizens because they are provided by civil society organizations, and by trained individuals from their communities..

Cooperation among different actors that work on legal empowerment and access to justice at local level remains very low. There is lack of specific joint action and mutual support, on the account of which implementation on the ground, which ultimately reflects access to justice, is left to the will of different entities without specific sustainable solutions in place.

MoJ regional offices are not very visible and recognizable among citizens in physical terms. In many locations, due to cost-effectiveness, MoJ regional offices are accommodated at buildings with other institutions, are inadequately marked or not marked at all. Physical inaccessibility could mean difficult access to justice, dependence from other persons and discouragement to exercise the right to free legal aid. Persons with impaired sight and hearing are also non-informed about their right to free legal aid because there are no informational materials adjusted to their needs. MoJ's website does not allow insight in the names of attorneys next in line to act upon application for free legal aid. Moreover, the website is not adjusted to persons with dyslexia and does not provide sufficient information in languages spoken by minority communities. There are no references where

	and how citizens can lodge complaints about performance by authorised providers of free legal aid. According to the last research on legal needs of citizens from 2015, every second citizen in RNM is facing some legal problem. Worrying is the fact that citizens do not recognize their legal problems and qualify as legal problems only those that would end up before the court. It is evident that citizens in RNM need services and legal empowerment, but special attention should be paid to vulnerable groups which, due to their vulnerability, are in much more disadvantaged position and have limited access to justice.
Main objective of the commitment	Main objective: legal empowerment and access to justice for all citizens according to their legal needs and problems. Based on previously achieved milestones under NAP4 commitment, this new commitment ensures sustainability for access to justice and legal empowerment (taking into consideration recommendations from OGP Independent Reporting Mechanism to include the National Strategy on Legal Empowerment) by achieving several outcomes, as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Creation of the National Strategy on Legal Empowerment; - Increased visibility and physical accessibility of MoJ regional offices; - Adoption of legal amendments aimed at more efficient exercise of access to justice and related to forensic expertise and access to legal aid for victims of violent crimes; - Establishment of cooperation between the Bureau of Judicial Forensic and forensic experts from all areas, and regulated procedure for provision of forensic findings and opinions; - Informed representatives from MoJ, the Bureau, Bar Association and other institutions providing forensic expertise in areas that affect access to justice for population of poor property status; - Publicly available information on forensic experts and providers of formal and informal legal services; - Merging data hosted on the websites https://pravnapomos.mk/ and https://www.pravnozajakni.mk/; - Mapping formal and informal providers of legal aid; - Creating and maintaining the publicly available registry of formal and informal legal aid providers; - Merging data disposed by CSOs and MoJ; - Establishment of interoperable and comprehensive database with information from all legal aid and legal service providers in order to assess the current state-of-affairs and find practical and reliable solutions; - Available services and information for persons with disabilities.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	The commitment concerns several interventions that will contribute to more efficient access to justice for all citizens. First, LFLA needs to be amended in order to provide basis for efficient access to forensic services in all areas for citizens and to guarantee efficient protection of victims of violent crimes. At the same time, in order to ensure forensic services pursuant to LFLA for legal issues that qualify for free legal aid, the Bureau of Judicial Forensic will sign contracts with forensic experts, followed by activities that will guarantee

	involvement of all parties in the process. In order to provide efficient protection for victims of violent crimes, the gap in access to free legal aid in criminal proceedings for these victims necessitates relevant crime offences currently threatened with imprisonment sentence in smaller duration to be stipulated as crimes threatened with imprisonment sanction in duration of at least 4 years. Next is creation of the National Strategy on Legal Empowerment. The strategy will be created under transparent process with involvement of all relevant actors. The national strategy will be multi-sectoral and will include all stakeholder institutions and CSOs that work on provision of services, legal aid and legal empowerment. Moreover, it will anticipate specific activities, budget and timeline for legal empowerment of all citizens at national and local level. Comprehensive and sustainable approach is needed in order to merge activities of local institutions and CSOs into joint actions aimed at promoting access to justice for all. At the time of COVID-19 pandemic, efforts will be made to contribute to greater visibility, transparency and accessibility of formal and informal legal aid providers. Increased visibility and physical accessibility of MoJ regional offices will mean better availability of their services for citizens. Adjustment of relevant materials will result in timely information and empowerment of persons with disabilities. Accessibility of registries of legal aid providers will contribute to information and guidance of citizens where to address their legal needs according to the nature of their legal problem. The registry of forensic experts will contribute to greater openness of data and citizens' right to choose.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because it provides access to new, more comprehensive and timely information related to exercise of the right to free legal aid and informal legal aid modalities and legal empowerment of citizens. It improves quality of information made available to citizens at national and local level, in exercise of their right to access to justice. It improves public availability of information and facilitates the right to information in respect to exercise of the right to access to justice by providing legal aid for citizens, especially for the most marginalized groups. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because it creates and improves possibilities and conditions for public participation and impact in decision-making, thereby ensuring creation of activities that directly emerge from and are tailored to citizens' needs, and active participation of citizens. It creates or improves the enabling environment for civil society by involving civil society organizations and citizens as active factors in development and promotion of access to justice, which will be formed into a complementary cycle of activities based on the needs of those for which they are intended. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because it creates or improves accountability rules, regulations and mechanisms for public officials by creating and publishing publicly available information on implemented solutions on the basis of which all citizens, including the most marginalized groups, will be able to find adequate solution to their daily legal problems and hold the authorities accountable.

Additional information		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Required/secured budget by MoJ to implement part of the commitment. Linked to the Law on Free Legal Aid, Strategy on Justice System Reform 2017-2022 Linked to UN Sustainable Development Goal 16.3. RNM is indicated as model country committed to promote access to justice, including the priority area “access to justice” under OGP National Action Plan 2018-2020. Monitoring implementation of SDG 16.3 in the state necessitates regular data collection and record keeping on the status of vulnerable groups of citizens. These data should serve as baseline for development of national plan for implementation of SDG 16.3., i.e. plan for promotion of access to justice for vulnerable groups of citizens. Based on the analysis of previously collected data per defined indicator to monitor implementation of SDG 16.3 at national and local level, the plan for implementation of SDG 16.3. will be developed in the next period. In addition, one of the most frequent legal problems for which citizens need free legal aid concerns geodesy studies. MYLA, with support from FOSM, developed policy brief on forensic expertise and free legal aid titled “Does the new Law on Free Legal Aid from 2019 facilitates access to free-of-charge forensic expertise to persons that were approved secondary legal aid?”. This policy document contains more information on the problem issue, but also recommendations and proposals to address the problem.

5. ENVIRONMENT AND CLIMATE ACTION

5.1. Reduce climate change impact and protect the environment from agriculture activities

October 2021 –March 2023

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Lack of available information in rural areas; - Lack of developed awareness on climate change consequences; - Global instead of local approach to this topic; - Lack of education among rural population to recognize climate change impact and contribute to addressing this problem; - Non-involvement of citizens in decision-making related to climate action, etc.; - Reduced local food production and income from this activity; - Polluted air and threatened health of the population; - Contribution to negative effects from climate change; - Traditional ways of taking action and non-enforcement of adopted legal measures and norms; - Farmers manage 50% of the land in RNM, use 60 to 80% of freshwaters in the state for their stables, hen farms, sheepfolds, or simply for farms with large number of animals, use thousands tons of strong or less strong toxic materials in the form of pesticides, fertilizers and other agro-chemicals. - According to research on structure of agriculture holdings made by the State Statistical Office in 2016, the individual sector engages only 5.2% of people with any kind of agriculture education, while the number of highly educated staff in the field of agriculture accounts for only 0.8%. - As regards information of citizens, among 473 respondents from 48 municipalities in RNM covered under the research conducted by MESP, predominant is the attitude that addressing climate change is not an individual responsibility but responsibility of the government, industry and companies and citizens lack knowledge and sufficient information how to help in addressing climate change.
Main objective of the commitment	Main objective of the commitments is to reduce environment pollution and negative effects from climate change through increased education and information for rural population. Outcomes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Increased uptake of good agriculture practices as precondition for environmental protection from agriculture activities; • Increased knowledge with 50% of family agriculture holdings on applicable rules for good agriculture practices and penal provisions for non-enforcement; • Established system for regular information on climate change and negative effects thereof.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Above described milestones will directly contribute to addressing the public problem related to environment pollution and increased effects of climate change because it is a matter of more than 170,000 family agricultural holdings that perform agriculture activities without due care for environmental pollution. Enhanced awareness, education and greater

5.2. Access to information on air pollution levels October 2021 – September 2023
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	A total of 18 fixed and 1 mobile metering stations are part of the state monitoring system for quality of ambient air and are located in different towns across the state. Of these, 5 stations are in Skopje, 2 in Bitola, and 1 in Kumanovo, Miladinovci, Kochani, Veles, Strumica, Kavadarci, Gevgelija, Kichevo, Lazaropole, Gostivar and Tetovo. The mobile monitoring station is operational from 2017 and is located in municipalities not covered by fixed monitoring stations for a period of one year. Thus far, it was placed in Municipality of Butel, Skopje, and is currently located in Municipality of Gjorche Petrov, Skopje. Other small towns in the country do not have fixed metering stations, and monitoring air quality in these locations is envisaged by rotation of the mobile station.⁶ The state monitoring network for quality of ambience air meets the criteria for minimum number of metering locations in a given zone and agglomeration, as stipulated in the national legislation and EU Air Quality Directives. In recent years, the state monitoring network has faced problems in respect to continuous operation of metering instruments, especially due to old equipment. For long period of time, the instrument used for monitoring PM10 concentration was not functional at the metering station in Lisiche, while problems with this and instruments for monitoring concentration of other particles (CO, NO2, O3, PM2.5 and SO2) are also observed in other metering stations across Skopje.⁷ In Bitola, metering concentration of PM2.5 particles started in 2017 and was performed with only one metering station (Bitola 2), but from October 2020 concentration of these particles is also measured by second metering station (Bitola 1). In Kumanovo, PM2.5 concentration is measured from 2017.⁸ In that respect, for example, instruments for PM10 particles in metering station Bitola 1 have not produced data for 187 days in 2019, 26 days in 2018, 79 days in 2016 and 19 days in 2015, while PM10 instruments in metering station Bitola 2 have not produced data for 192 days in 2019, 56 days in 2018, 66 days in 2017, 6 days 2016 and 56 days in 2015. At the same time, instruments for measuring concentration of PM2.5 particles in metering station Bitola 2, installed in 2017, have not

	produced data for 192 days in 2019 and 56 days in 2018.⁹ However, MESP actively works on renewal and additions to the state automated monitoring system for quality of ambience air by securing funds from the state budget and different donor projects. In the last years, there is evident improvement in functionality of the monitoring system and it is expected for the same to be completely renewed by the end of 2022. In order to properly plan activities for reducing air pollution in the state, reliable and comprehensive network for monitoring concentration of particles needs to be in place. Comprehensive and reliable data from the monitoring network are needed for creation of strategy documents in this area (plans, strategies, etc.) and for monitoring their implementation, i.e. whether and under what dynamics anticipated goals are attained (are goals defined in respect to reduced concentration of polluters being attained, is dynamics of attainment on satisfactory level and the like). Attainment of this goal requires regular and timely maintenance and servicing of already installed metering stations within the state monitoring network. From 2012, data from the state automated monitoring system for air quality are published in real time on the air quality portal (https://air.moepp.gov.mk). They are regularly reported at national level and to the European Environment Agency.
Main objective of the commitment	General objective: provide comprehensive and reliable information on air pollution levels in RNM Specific objective 1: Increase the number of metering stations in the state Specific objective 2: Regular maintenance and servicing of metering instruments that are part of metering stations within the state monitoring network Specific objective 3: Develop mobile application to present data from the state automated monitoring system for quality of ambience air Outputs: implementation of activities will contribute to increased scope of the state monitoring system by increasing the number of metering stations in towns currently not covered by this network. Regular maintenance and servicing of existing and new metering instrument will allow the state to create solid database necessary for development of efficient policies for reduction of air pollution and for monitoring attainment of goals defined under strategy documents. By securing a set of reserve metering instruments that would be put into operation at times when existing instruments are being serviced will ensure there are no losses in metering data. Development of the mobile application will ensure information for citizens on air quality in streamlined and acceptable manner.
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Installation of new metering stations for air quality in Prilep, Ohrid and Shtip as part of the state monitoring network will increase the number of metering stations, i.e. the scope of air quality data which, in the long term, will contribute to better policy planning at central and local level. Installation of air quality metering station in Berovo will contribute to better monitoring of transborder pollution. Installation of additional metering station will contribute to better planning of local air quality policies. Accordingly, this will

	allow better assessment of measures to be taken, as well as selection of measures and policies to effectively address this problem. Regular maintenance and servicing of instruments in the state automated monitoring system will allow efficient monitoring and attainment of monitoring goals defined under the Law on Quality of Ambience Air. Securing a set of reserve metering instruments will contribute to effective maintenance of all metering stations, i.e. the state network that will be able to efficiently monitor air quality, ultimately resulting in: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ possibility for calculation of mean daily concentration of pollutants and information to citizens; ➤ timely implementation of short-term measures to improve air quality at local level in the case of exceeded alarm thresholds; ➤ planning central and local policies for reduction of air pollution; ➤ monitoring implementation of measures anticipated under central and local policies. Development of the mobile application will allow information for citizens on air quality in streamlined, i.e. modern manner that is acceptable for all mobile phone users.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR TRANSPARENCY because installation of new metering instruments in the state monitoring network will secure more information for state institutions, but also for citizens and civil society organizations. Installation of metering stations in towns that are not covered will ensure greater coverage of the state monitoring network, contributing to comprehensive presentation of state-of-affairs in respect to air pollution. Regular maintenance of installed metering stations and installation of metering stations in towns not covered within the national network will improve quality and reliability of air pollution information in the state. Increasing the total number and regular maintenance of metering stations in the state, whose metering data will be showed on already established MESP website on air quality, will allow the public and state institution comprehensive and reliable information on actual state-of-affairs. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR CIVIC PARTICIPATION because its implementation will ensure more information for citizens and civil society organizations, contributing to their proposals and participation in policy making related to air pollution based on evidence and accurate information. Implementation of the commitment will allow civil society organizations to monitor implementation of measures to reduce air pollution, as well as state strategy documents. COMMITMENT IS IMPORTANT FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY because provision of reliable information on the level of air pollution will allow citizens and civil society organizations to regularly monitor attainment of goals defined under strategy documents in this area and to react in the public, contributing to accountable state institutions that timely react to address challenges and work towards efficient attainment of monitoring goals and state obligations arising from legal regulations and the Aarhus Convention.

Based on success achieved under the initiative's previous expansion to include the Assembly of RNM, in addition to commitments related to Open Parliament this cycle also includes commitments for Open Judiciary. Hence, in order to respect independence of work performed by legislative and judicial branches of government in RNM, Macedonian iteration of the Open Government Partnership was adjusted to reflect this inclusion and accommodate the broader meaning of government as governing authorities. Consequently, all future communication and implementation of this initiative will reflect the local formulation which is back-translated as PARTNERSHIP FOR OPEN GOVERNMENT.

The Appendix below provides an overview on development of action plans for Open Parliament and Open Judiciary, as well as summary overview of commitments and milestones defined for them.

Coordination, implementation and monitoring of actions plans for Open Parliament and Open Judiciary will be performed by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia and the Supreme Court of the Republic of North Macedonia, respectively, with regular information provided to the Ministry of Information Society and Administration and the web-portal designated for OGP (www.ovp.gov.mk).

OPEN JUDICIARY

OPEN GOVERNMENT PARTNERSHIP NATIONAL ACTION PLAN 2021-2023 (NAP5) - OPEN JUDICIARY

Based on the government's experience and benefits from successful implementation of four action plans (2012, 2014, 2016 and 2018), the fact that the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia joined and implemented its first Open Parliament Action Plan under the Open Government Partnership 2018-2020, and proactivity of the judicial branch of government and the civil society, the fifth OGP National Action Plan (2021-2023) includes a separate section on the judiciary, with specific commitments aimed to improve transparency and openness of the courts and to restore the public's trust in judicial institutions.

The first Open Judiciary Action Plan was developed under broad discussions and three (3) round tables organized among court presidents, judges and representatives from judicial services at all courts in RNM, representatives from the Judicial Council, Ministry of Justice, Academy of Judges and Public Prosecutors, civil society representatives (monitoring organizations) and other experts in this field. Consultations organized in the period January-March 2020 included participation of OGP National Coordinator, i.e. the Ministry of Information Society and Administration, as the lead institution for this activity. Ideas and needs of institutions and the civil society involved in the co-creation process, which included active participation of 51 representatives from the public and non-governmental sector, were translated into commitments and 21 milestones under two priority areas.

Summary overview of Open Judiciary commitments

1. ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND DATA
1.1 Improve the electronic judicial portal of RNM (www.sud.mk) (1 October 2021 – 31 December 2022)
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Introduction of the electronic judicial portal of RNM (www.sud.mk) in 2017 was expected to contribute to greater transparency of the courts, but there are still major differences in respect to quality and scope of data made available by different courts. Information hosted on individual court websites are not unified, regularly published and updated, and not all data is published in open format. For example, court reports and work biographies of judges are not unified and not all of them are available on court websites, while in some cases information provided therein are unclear. Inconsistency and selective publication of data raise doubts about information being concealed from the public and directly affects citizens' trust in the judiciary as the third branch of government. Moreover, the courts are not proactive in sharing information on asset declarations of judges, whereby sections hosting work biographies of judges do not provide hyperlinks to SCPS's website where asset declarations of all judges are published. Not all courts have published data related to free access to public information (person responsible for free access to information, e-mail/telephone), and there is no regular practice in place for publication of information that have been requested under the instrument for free access to information. Openness is necessary for improving public trust in the courts and the overall justice system, and for facilitating public understanding on who and how is justice delivered by the courts. In that, openness is one of key components of the court process's legitimacy and reason contributing to the public's low trust in performance and decisions taken by the courts. The judicial portal is not adjusted for use by persons with impaired sight.
Main objective of the commitment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> To provide standardized and unified information and data about the courts and their jurisprudence, and to increase scope of judiciary data published in open format; To expand scope of data made available in open format and hosted on the portal; To increase scope and to improve quality of data and information published;
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Increased scope, improved quality and regular updating of data published on the judicial portal will lead to introduction of new practices in the Macedonian judiciary that requires transparent and accountable, but primarily, visible performance of the courts for citizens in RNM.

How is this commitment relevant to OGP values?		The commitment ensures access to more information, improves quality of data and improves availability of public information, and is therefore relevant for transparency.

1. ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND DATA
1.2. Improve the courts' public relations (1 October 2021 - 31 March 2022)
Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Institutional framework and practice related to transparency and openness of the courts is marked by numerous problems and challenges. In particular, the courts lack resources and knowledge to comply with relevant norms stipulated under the Court's Rules of Procedure in relation to public relations. Moreover, the courts do not strive to engage in regular and direct communication with the public by means of press conferences, interviews, electronic media, etc. Link between the courts and the media needs to be renewed in order to restore the public's trust in the judiciary and judicial institutions.

1.3. Improve quality and availability of data and information on the Judicial Council's performance (1 September 2021 – 31 December 2022)

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	The Judicial Council of RNM plays two-fold role in respect to the judiciary's transparency. On one hand, it has an active role, i.e. monitors transparency and openness of the judiciary. On the other hand, it appears as passive subject that should comply with legal obligations in order to demonstrate transparency. Law on the Judicial Council in RNM stipulates obligations for the Judicial Council in respect to mandatory publication of information on its website in relation to: appointment of council members (art. 14 and art. 25); reviewing quarterly and annual judiciary performance reports (art. 36, par. 1, item 14); minutes from council sessions (art. 39); decisions taken in repeated court proceedings (art. 72, par. 5); council's annual reports. According to some recent analyses, the Judicial Council of RNM has received poor assessments, i.e. it has been established that the Judicial Council does not have good communication channels with citizens and the media. There is no guide on how citizens can motion appeals or complaints on the council's website and there is no guide for the media. Obligations of the Judicial Court arising from complaints lodged by citizens are regulated under the Law on the Judicial Council of RNM. However, the council's website does not host any information on submission or responses to complaints made by citizens in RNM. The principle of transparency is also assessed as poor, given that, with exception of good assessments in respect to available information on the council's organizational structure, it has been established that there are no public procurement policies and information is not shared on completed public procurements. The Judicial Council is defined as information holder pursuant to the Law on Free Access to Public Information. This means that the council is obliged to comply with obligations arising from that law.
Main objective of the commitment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> To increase availability and quality of information disposed by the Judicial Council, and to facilitate citizens' access in respect to lodging complaints before the council;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> To standardize quality and scope of data that should be mandatorily published by the courts; To establish standards and methods for publication of data on the Judicial Council's website; To facilitate access in respect to lodging appeals and complaints by citizens through the Judicial Council's website; To improve functionality of the Judicial Council's website;
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	The comments will directly impact access to information and accountability of institutions, but also public participation in work of the courts, by establishing standards and procedures for publication of data and by designing tools for submission of complaints by citizens in RNM.
How is the commitment relevant to OGP values?	The commitment ensures improved legal framework and accountability mechanisms, which makes it important in respect to the judiciary's public accountability.
Additional information	Link to SDG 16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions' SDG target 16.6: Develop effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels This commitment will contribute to increased openness of the Judicial Council of RNM through improved quality and availability of data and information on its performance.

2. PERFORMANCE

2.1. Enhance oversight role of the Judicial Council in respect to transparency of the courts (1 September 2021 – 1 July 2022)

Which public problem is addressed by the commitment?	Art, 92, par.1, item 5 of the Law on the Judicial Council is novelty in the Macedonian legal framework, whereby the Judicial Council assesses whether court presidents care for their public relations. The Judicial Council should perform this by insight into court websites, i.e. checking press releases, decisions, analyses and reports published. Moreover, the Judicial Council should assess whether court presidents ensure proper processing of information requests. By the end of 2019, the Judicial Council adopted new Rules of Procedures for the Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia, but has still not started activities in respect to monitoring court websites. For the Judicial Court to monitor these websites, i.e. to assess work of court presidents, specific process rules needs to be established (designated employee or organizational unit within the Judicial Council that will be tasked with performing insight into court websites, how will that employee/organizational unit report findings to the Judicial Council, how will

2.2. Improve/unify the structure of court reports and quality of data (1 September 2021 – 31 December 2022)

Which public problem is addressed with the commitment?	The Strategy on Justice System Reform (2017-2022) establishes that the form of annual work reports for the courts, the Judicial Council and the Supreme Court are not unified, which creates problems in respect to clarity and understanding of

	report content, especially in respect to statistics, due to unsynchronized data. Most courts keep statistics on the number of received, resolved and pending cases that greatly differ from statistics on court performance kept by the Judicial Council. Hence, there is a need for unification and standardization of all reports (monthly and annual) developed by courts and judicial institutions. Although the deadline for addressing this situation indicated in the Strategy's Action Plan was January 2018, identical findings are featured in independent analyses conducted in 2020.
Main objective of the commitment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> To unify court reports and ensure they provide quantitative and qualitative information on court performance; To develop and adopt methodology for unified annual report templates, and to develop adequate template for court reports accompanied by detailed guidelines for completion;
How will the commitment contribute to addressing the public problem?	Introduction of the methodology on unified templates for presentation of information and data in the public will primarily ensure synchronization of data disposed by judicial institutions. Previous practices for collection and systematisation of different statistics related to the courts in RNM will be replaced with unified approach and template for data collection and publication.
Why is this commitment relevant for OGP values?	The commitment provides uniformity of court data presented in the public, whereby the commitment is important for improved transparency and openness.
